Wall Street Publication Says Employment Is 'Bit Brighter'

Albany, March 5 (AP)—New York Central officials, in the midst of a battle to prevent financier Robert R. Young from wresting away control of the railroad, refused today to confirm or deny reports of impending layoffs affecting at least 1,200 workers.

Hardest hit were the New York Central car shops at East Buffalo and West Albany, where a total of more than 1,000 layoff notices reportedly were posted.

The Delaware and Hudson railroad announced yesterday that 131 employes on its Susquehanna division would be laid off this weekend.

The reported cutback at Buffalo would raise to about 2,000 the number of railroad workers idled by layoffs in that area in recent weeks, approximately 10 per cent of the area's 20,000 railroad employes.

Meanwhile, at Syracuse, the General Electric Co. said last night between 125 and 150 production workers would be laid off in its color television tube plant within the next three weeks.

Says Things Are Better

The states surveyed were New York, Massachusetts, Texas, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, California, Michigan, Washington, Oregon and Illinois.

The newspaper said that new claims for unemployment compensation filed in those states last week totaled 171,400, a decline of 26,100 claims from the 197,500 filed the week ended Feb. 20.

"We have passed the reasonable foreseeable peak in new claims," was the report in Detroit of a spokesman for the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

New Claims Fall Off

"New claims are falling off pretty rapidly right now," was the comment from Missouri's division of employment security.

"The situation looks encouraging," said a spokesman for the Texas commission. "Signs indicate a definite trent downward (in new claims), and the number of dropouts is slowly approaching the number of claims, indicating that many who filed for jobless pay earlier are going back to work."

A spokesman for the Oregon State Unemployment Compensation Commission said reports there show "people are going back to work and prospects are bright. Some reports of rehirings are not large, but the outlook is encouraging."

Ballantine Site Is to Be Modernized —to Improve Services

Contracts have been signed for purchase of the Ballantine building on Field Court by Ulster Provisioners Co-operative Association, Inc., of 10 East Strand, independently owned wholesale grocers.

Announcement of purchase of the central Broadway section building, with its 30,000 square feet of floor space, was made today by James B. Roberts, UPA general manager. Negotiations have been in progress for several weeks.

Raymond E. Craft, local real estate business broker, handled negotiations.

To Be Modernized

Modernization of the structure, which has three stories, a basement, a railroad siding and a spacious parking lot, will begin immediately.

Roberts said machinery for a conveyor-type operation to carry merchandise from floor to floor would be installed. Three new overhead doors will be installed in front of the building to handle outgoing shipments and two large doors on the side to receive merchandise by trailer. In the rear a large receiving platform will be erected at the siding so that two railroad cars can be unloaded simultaneously. The present office will be modernized.

The Ballantine building was occupied until recently by P. Ballantine and Sons, wholesale beverage concern. The Ballantine operations have been transferred to the former Adirondack Trailway Garage in Tillson.

The building was built about 20 years ago by Leon Blankfield and William R. Harrison as a wholesale grocery firm.

Roberts said the present move

Phone Operator Dies In Bethel Accident

Bethel, March 5 (AP)—Gale Coots, 19, of White Lake, was killed shortly after midnight today in the crash of an automobile against a tree after it failed to negotiate a downhill curve.

State police at Ferndale said she was a passenger in an automobile operated by Roger Taylor, 22, of White Lake. Taylor and another passenger, Beverly Dauch, 18, of Cauneonga Lake, were injured and taken to Monticello Hospital.

Police said the girls were telephone operators.

They said Miss Coots died of multiple fractures. Taylor suffered lacerations and a cerebral concussion. Miss Dauch was treated for shock.

Water Board Is To Request Bids

Installation to IBM Site to Be 4,300 Feet; Is for Pipe, Fittings

The Kingston Board of Water Commissioners last night indicated the board will be prepared to advertise for bids next week for pipe and fittings to start installation of about 4,300 feet of 12-inch pipe from the city's main water line to the site of the proposed IBM plant in the town of Ulster.

It was also reported that the application to the New York State Water Power Control Commission is also ready for submission. Permission of that body is required for extension of the service.

The 12-inch pipe to be installed for serving the IBM plant will be concrete lined.

Work on replacement of the old water line between the filter plant and the Jockey Hill road with a new and larger line has been progressing, Edmund T. Cloonan, water department superintendent said, and a full crew is expected to be working there next week. Most of the preliminary work has been finished, he said.

The city water board met recently with the town board, township of Ulster, to discuss a necessary easement to extend the IBM line across Boice's Lane, and were advised to draw up the easement so that it could be studied by Lloyd R. LeFever, town of Ulster attorney before final decision.

Traffic Acute

New York, March 5 (AP)—State commissions of New York and New Jersey declared yesterday that traffic congestion is causing "self-strangulation" of the metropolitan area. Comprehensive action to ease the transportation angle is "of urgent pressing importance," the commissioners said. They added that the traffic bottlenecks already are causing an economic waste of an estimated two billion dollars annually, and creating inconvenience and hazards for a region of 14 million people. In a joint report, the New York Metropolitan Rapid Transit Commission said traffic has "now exceeded the point of full saturation. "Self-strangulation is becoming increasingly acute."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury March 3: Balance, $4,572,033,699.97; deposits fiscal year July 1, $40,871,427,029.27; withdrawals fiscal year, $48,225,992,325.64; total debt, (x) $274,752,852,722.60; gold assets, $21,957,819,286.30. Unions Defy U. S. Order About Piers

Wildcat Strikers Tie Up Manhattan Docks; Bradley Says Ruling Discriminatory

New York, March 5 (AP)—Wildcat strikers tied up New York's sprawling port today, defying a Federal Court order in a battle for union control of the waterfront.

Resentful members of the independent International Longshoremen's Association refused to work the piers in Manhattan and stayed off the job at piers in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

Waterfront police reported the rival AFL union of the same name also refused to report to work at struck piers, apparently to avoid any brawling.

The two unions are fighting for control of the dock workers.

The striking ILA longshoremen said they acted because of a court restraining order obtained against them in Federal Court yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board.

Forced to Carry Bags

Passengers boarding the Queen Elizabeth were forced to carry their own luggage. The Cunard Line mustered about 100 office workers to help out.

ILA leaders ordered the men to stay on the job, but ILA President William V. Bradley last night called the court order "discriminatory." He said the men "are so angry we can't tell what will happen."

Bradley said the National Labor Relations Board, which obtained the order late yesterday from U. S. Judge Edward J. Dimock, is "against us and for the AFL."

The waterfront tieups developed from the battle between the ILA and the new AFL-ILA for certification as bargaining agent for longshoremen in the port. The dis-

Ruzzo Is Accused On Income Return

Albany, March 5 (AP)—The federal government today accused a Kingston businessman of failing to file an income tax return for 1950 on alleged gross income of $167,581.

U. S. Attorney Theodore Bowes filed the charge in federal court against Victor Ruzzo (of 103 Albany avenue). The offense is a misdemeanor.

Tells of Profit

J. Russel Sprague, Republican leader and former Nassau county executive, leaves hearing in New York city (Mar. 4) after testifying before Moreland Act Commission investigating state harness racing. Sprague, who resigned as a GOP national committeeman after his name was linked with raceway probe, told commission he bought $2,000 worth of raceway stock in 1945 and resold it 10 months later, realizing a net profit of $195,000. He said his accountant told him the stock "would have been worth $3,000,000" if he had retained possession of it. (AP Wirephoto)

Provenzano Tells How He Obtained Control of Track

Former Assemblyman Says He Borrowed $15,000 in 1945 to Get Interest

New York, March 5 (AP)—Pat E. Provenzano, former Rochester Republican state assemblyman, described today how he got control of Batavia Downs harness track in 1944 on a borrowed $15,000.

Provenzano told a Moreland Act Commission purging the state's quarter billion dollar trotting tracks that he has been president since 1945 of the Genesee Monroe Racing Assn., which operates Batavia Downs.

The track is between Buffalo and Rochester.

Curran Would Return

As the commission went into the operation of Batavia Downs, Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran asked to appear again before the investigating group.

Curran testified last Tuesday he received a $10,000 fee in connection with the sale of land now used by Yonkers Raceway. He also said his wife for a time held nominal title of 500 shares of Algam Corp. stock. Algam now owns the Yonkers racing plant.

"It would be unfair to draw inferences from a few minutes of testimony giving a partial picture," said Curran in his request to testify again.

Chairman Bruce Bromley said Curran would be invited to appear Monday or Tuesday if his application is approved.

Wishman testified the Arsenal Hill Development Corp., owns the land upon which the track is located. Wishman said the "same

Anxious to Know Whether Political Connections Helped in Curran Track Deal

An editorial in the Albany Knickerbocker Press, published Thursday, calls on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to be as prompt with questions in the raceway case as he was in demanding explanations of Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city about his visits to Joseph Fay in Sing Sing prison.

Calling Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran directly responsible to the governor, the newspaper would have him tell the chief executive of the state about circumstances relative to his receiving $10,000 for introducing two lawyers representing racing interests, and would like to know whether his "modest service to the racing interests would have been so valuable if he had not been secretary of state, and if he had not been the party leader in New York county?"

Governor Dewey called on Senator Wicks to resign as Senate Majority Leader for calling on Fay in jail, as the Senator explained, to try to settle labor disputes in his district. Wicks, through the governor's insistence, also had to surrender his post as acting lieutenant governor, following swearing-in ceremonies after he stepped into the post when Frank Moore resigned.

The Editorial

The Knickerbocker editorial, entitled Politics and Profit: The Raceway Twins, is as follows:

If the citizens of this state aren't too groggy to feel the impact of a couple more punches to the solar plexus, they must be staggered anew by disclosures of exorbitant profits reaped by those "folks in the know" on harness racing and an admission by Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran that he received $10,000 merely for introducing two lawyers representing racing interests.

Regarding Mr. Curran's peculiar social-fiscal attainment, several questions must be asked. He is head of the Department of State, under which are the divisions of the State Racing Commission, and the Division of State Harness Racing Commission. He also is Re-

Banyo Says Only 125 of 2,245 in Opposition to Increase

More than 2,000 ballots in favor of pay increases for Kingston teachers have been received by the finance committee of the board of education, representatives of the local teacher organizations reported to the board last night.

Of a total of 2,245 ballots submitted, only 125 opposed the new salary schedule proposed recently by the Kingston Teachers Association and Kingston Teachers Federation, Alexander Banyo, president of the association, reported.

Banyo appeared before the board with Richard Mason, president of the federation; Mary Kelly, Robert Tucker and Victor Mahoney, members of the teachers salary revision committee, and Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, counsel for the teachers, to urge adoption of the proposed schedule.

Teacher Ballot Held

The new schedule, calling for increases averaging approximately $1,000 per teacher for the year 1954-55, was also approved by 228 of the city's 236 teachers, Banyo said. Three others accepted conditionally, two of them expressing the view that 20 steps were too many and that teachers should not have to wait 20 years to reach maximum pay. There were no answers from five, one of whom was in the hospital, Banyo said.

"The school system you want and the system we will have depends upon you," Banyo told the board.

If the schedule were adopted, he stated, "never" in the foreseeable future "will we have the problem of getting the best teachers."

Cites 'New Incentive'

He said morale would be improved and Kingston teachers would find "new incentive," pointing out that a "professional salary" would be the basis of "many fine things in the future."

Banyo explained that the teachers had been "asked" by the board to obtain a statement of public opinion and that the ballots received to date indicated a clear mandate in favor of the proposed salary schedule are "substantial taxpayers," according to Banyo.

"We are thinking of the school system. We cannot have the best system unless we can attract the best type of teacher—and the

Superintendent Reports $25,000 Estimated —City Counsel Gives Salary Opinion

The Kingston Board of Education has been asked to consider the reconditioni.g of School No. 8 in order to meet the needs of heavy registration anticipated in 1955.

Superintendent of Education Arthur H. Laidlaw suggested last night that the board consider making the building available, in case of need.

Reconditioning would cost an estimated $25,000. The roof needs repairing, the floors would have to be refinished and a cafeteria installed, the superintendent said.

Might Have to Rent

If the building were not available it might be necessary to rent additional space for classrooms in "church basements" or "fire stations," etc., Laidlaw pointed out.

School No. 8 would be "far better than anything else we could rent," he told the board.

Laidlaw also told the board that five new teachers would be needed in the school system next year—three on the third grade level and two in the Myron J. Michael School, seventh grade level.

The most serious problem will be in the MJM School, he said. A partition between the school library and one of the classrooms was taken out to enlarge the library. It must now be restored —but this will provide for only one teacher. There will be need for a second additional classroom, for which no space is available.

1959 Is Crucial

Laidlaw said registration in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the city system had dropped off a little, but that the second grade will reach the MJM School in 1959, producing an even more serious problem there. Availability of School No. 8 could relieve the situation.

Attorney Louis Bruhn, a member of the board, presented a letter from Corporation Counsel James A. Abernethy in which Abernethy pointed out that the present teacher salary schedule

Ulster Children to Get Polio Vaccine by Consent

Ulster has been designated as one of the counties to take part in the polio vaccine trials this spring and summer, according to an announcement today by State Health Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe.

The new vaccine, which authorities hope may provide the eventual key to the stamping out of paralytic poliomyelitis, will be administered with parental consent to boys and girls in the first three grades in county schools.

Administrtive details remain to be worked out for the innoculation, according to Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner. He said today that he expected the state health commissioner will call a meeting of health officers in the 20 counties and six New York city health districts chosen for the trials, at which they will be briefed.

Dr. Hargrave said the public will be notified as plans are developed and parents will be informed as to how to file their permission for their children to take part in the trials. He intimated that it will not be necessary or desirable for parents desiring to have their children included to contact the health department at this time.

Dr. Hargrave estimated there are from 4,500 to 5,500 first, second and third graders in the county who will be eligible. He stressed the fact that this figure is subject to revision after consultation with the various school districts in the county.

The trials will be conducted with the active cooperation of the Ulster County Medical Society.

All pupils from the first three grades, whether in city, central or rural, public, private or parochial schools, are considered eligible for the trials. No vaccine or control will be administered without written consent of the parents.

In the studies, one-half of all children participating will be given the vaccine and the others will receive an inactive substance instead of the vaccine, Dr. Hilleboe said. This will make possible an exact comparison between the poliomyelitis attack rate among those children who receive the vaccine and those who do not.

Each child who is taking part in the studies will receive three injections of one cc. each. (one cc. is equal to about one-quarter teaspoon.) The first two doses will be given at one-week intervals, and the third, or booster, dose four weeks later. All injections will be given in the arm, in the same way shots are given for diphtheria or tetanus.

No one taking part in the trials, not even the doctors giving the vaccine, will know which children receive the vaccine and which the

Wilson Says Any Idea of Coddling Of Reds by U. S. Army 'Tommyrot'

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says any "idea the army is coddling Communists is just damn tommyrot" but that he is looking for better ways to handle security-risks in the future.

Wilson snapped out the "tommyrot" comment at a news conference yesterday during which he was questioned about the case of Maj. Irving Peress, army dentist who invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about possible subversive connections. Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), investigating the case, has sharply criticized the army.

The Pentagon chief's comment stirred McCarthy, who only a few minutes before had vowed he was "all through" issuing statements, to retort that "no one has ever claimed that the army as such is coddling Communists." But McCarthy insisted, testimony had established that "certain individuals in the army have been protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists." The senator said he was sure the secretary "will not disagree with that."

Because McCarthy's was the final statement of the day, there was no immediate indication whether Wilson did or did not agree.

But in his news conference, devoted this week to the sole subject of Communism, Wilson did say:

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about Communism. Peress was inducted and commissioned under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically, responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case —but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident, from Peress right through, so we'll know the facts, so we can handle things better in the future. . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem; you wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several thorny points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

The policy, as it stands now, is that if a volunteer for enlistment refuses to state whether he has or has had Communist connections, he is refused acceptance by the army. If a draftee comes up for induction and refuses to answer the questions he is inducted, but assigned to a non-sensitive (no military security involved) job.

A second policy, applying to officers, was established by Secretary Stevens Feb. 20, and circulated to all army commands, with instructions that handling of cases covered by it "be expedited." The order under that policy is that officers found to be security risks be given discharge "other than honorable." It specifies that refusal to sign the loyalty certificate or invoking of the Fifth Amendment shall be considered sufficient evidence that the officer is a security risk. Its final clause announces that where there is con-

Two A. & P. Markets to Close Indefinitely Saturday at 6

Kingston's two A. & P. supermarkets will close at 6 p. m. Saturday and will remain closed until further notice as a result of a truck drivers' strike at the firm's Albany warehouse.

The warehouse, which serves this district, has been closed since Monday, when 200 members of the AFL Brotherhood of Teamsters walked off their jobs.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, which operates the food retail chain of A. & P. stores, announced today that "it will be necessary to close temporarily all A. & P. stores served by our Albany warehouse, effective Saturday, March 6, at 6 p. m. We are forced to close only because we are unable to operate the warehouse."

The firm operates markets at 91 North Front street and at 106-110 Prince street in Kingston, both of which will be affected, according to John L. Wood, manager of the uptown store. Wood said he has received no notification as to the expected length of the closing, but that it will be "until further notice."

Both local stores will be open for business as usual today, tonight, and tomorrow. Regular closing time on Saturday is 6 p. m.

In its announcement today, A. & P. said it took the step "with the utmost reluctance," but "had no alternative."

UPA Signs Contracts To Buy Building

Ballantine Site Is to Be Modernized —to Improve Services

Contracts have been signed for purchase of the Ballantine building on Field Court by Ulster Provisioners Co-operative Association, Inc., of 10 East Strand, independently owned wholesale grocers.

Central Refuses News About Layoffs

Wall Street Publication Says Employment Is 'Bit Brighter'

Albany, March 5 (AP)—New York Central officials, in the midst of a battle to prevent financier Robert R. Young from wresting away control of the railroad, refused today to confirm or deny reports of impending layoffs affecting at least 1,200 workers.

Hardest hit were the New York Central car shops at East Buffalo and West Albany, where a total of more than 1,000 layoff notices reportedly were posted.

The Delaware and Hudson railroad announced yesterday that 131 employes on its Susquehanna division would be laid off this weekend.

The reported cutback at Buffalo would raise to about 2,000 the number of railroad workers idled by layoffs in that area in recent weeks, approximately 10 per cent of the area's 20,000 railroad employes.

Meanwhile, at Syracuse, the General Electric Co. said last night between 125 and 150 production workers would be laid off in its color television tube plant within the next three weeks.

Says Things Are Better

The states surveyed were New York, Massachusetts, Texas, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, California, Michigan, Washington, Oregon and Illinois.

The newspaper said that new claims for unemployment compensation filed in those states last week totaled 171,400, a decline of 26,100 claims from the 197,500 filed the week ended Feb. 20.

"We have passed the reasonable foreseeable peak in new claims," was the report in Detroit of a spokesman for the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

New Claims Fall Off

"New claims are falling off pretty rapidly right now," was the comment from Missouri's division of employment security.

"The situation looks encouraging," said a spokesman for the Texas commission. "Signs indicate a definite trent downward (in new claims), and the number of dropouts is slowly approaching the number of claims, indicating that many who filed for jobless pay earlier are going back to work."

A spokesman for the Oregon State Unemployment Compensation Commission said reports there show "people are going back to work and prospects are bright. Some reports of rehirings are not large, but the outlook is encouraging."

No Results Reported

New York, March 5 (AP)—Mediation sessions have produced no apparent results toward easing the threat of a renewed strike by photo-engravers against six major New York newspapers. Three months ago the AFL photo-engravers shut down the dailies with an 11-day strike which ended when both sides agreed to submit the issues to non-binding fact-finding. The fact-finding panel last Tuesday gave the engravers a $3.75 wage package, which the publishers had offered. The panel also held that the 36¼-hour work week should not be reduced.

Albany, March 5 (AP)—The federal government today accused a Kingston businessman of failing to file an income tax return for 1950 on alleged gross income of $167,581.

U. S. Attorney Theodore Bowes filed the charge in federal court against Victor Ruzzo (of 103 Albany avenue). The offense is a misdemeanor.

Ulster Children to Get Polio Vaccine by Consent

Ulster has been designated as one of the counties to take part in the polio vaccine trials this spring and summer, according to an announcement today by State Health Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe.

The new vaccine, which authorities hope may provide the eventual key to the stamping out of paralytic poliomyelitis, will be administered with parental consent to boys and girls in the first three grades in county schools.

Administrtive details remain to be worked out for the innoculation, according to Dr. Dudley W. Hargrave, Ulster county health commissioner. He said today that he expected the state health commissioner will call a meeting of health officers in the 20 counties and six New York city health districts chosen for the trials, at which they will be briefed.

Dr. Hargrave said the public will be notified as plans are developed and parents will be informed as to how to file their permission for their children to take part in the trials. He intimated that it will not be necessary or desirable for parents desiring to have their children included to contact the health department at this time.

Dr. Hargrave estimated there are from 4,500 to 5,500 first, second and third graders in the county who will be eligible. He stressed the fact that this figure is subject to revision after consultation with the various school districts in the county.

The trials will be conducted with the active cooperation of the Ulster County Medical Society.

All pupils from the first three grades, whether in city, central or rural, public, private or parochial schools, are considered eligible for the trials. No vaccine or control will be administered without written consent of the parents.

In the studies, one-half of all children participating will be given the vaccine and the others will receive an inactive substance instead of the vaccine, Dr. Hilleboe said. This will make possible an exact comparison between the poliomyelitis attack rate among those children who receive the vaccine and those who do not.

Each child who is taking part in the studies will receive three injections of one cc. each. (one cc. is equal to about one-quarter teaspoon.) The first two doses will be given at one-week intervals, and the third, or booster, dose four weeks later. All injections will be given in the arm, in the same way shots are given for diphtheria or tetanus.

No one taking part in the trials, not even the doctors giving the vaccine, will know which children receive the vaccine and which the

Tells of Profit

J. Russel Sprague, Republican leader and former Nassau county executive, leaves hearing in New York city (Mar. 4) after testifying before Moreland Act Commission investigating state harness racing. Sprague, who resigned as a GOP national committeeman after his name was linked with raceway probe, told commission he bought $2,000 worth of raceway stock in 1945 and resold it 10 months later, realizing a net profit of $195,000. He said his accoountant told him the stock "would have been worth $3,000,000" if he had retained possession of it. (AP Wirephoto)

Provenzano Tells How He Obtained Control of Track

Former Assemblyman Says He Borrowed $15,000 in 1945 to Get Interest

New York, March 5 (AP)—Pat E. Provenzano, former Rochester Republican state assemblyman, described today how he got control of Batavia Downs harness track in 1944 on a borrowed $15,000.

Provenzano told a Moreland Act Commission purging the state's quarter billion dollar trotting tracks that he has been president since 1945 of the Genesee Monroe Racing Assn., which operates Batavia Downs.

The track is between Buffalo and Rochester.

Curran Would Return

As the commission went into the operation of Batavia Downs, Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran asked to appear again before the investigating group.

Curran testified last Tuesday he received a $10,000 fee in connection with the sale of land now used by Yonkers Raceway. He also said his wife for a time held nominal title of 500 shares of Algam Corp. stock. Algam now owns the Yonkers racing plant.

"It would be unfair to draw inferences from a few minutes of testimony giving a partial picture," said Curran in his request to testify again.

Chairman Bruce Bromley said Curran would be invited to appear Monday or Tuesday if his application is approved.

Wishman testified the Arsenal Hill Development Corp., owns the land upon which the track is located. Wishman said the "same

Ballots Are 20-1 For Teacher Pay

Banyo Says Only 125 of 2,245 in Opposition to Increase

More than 2,000 ballots in favor of pay increases for Kingston teachers have been received by the finance committee of the board of education, representatives of the local teacher organizations reported to the board last night.

Of a total of 2,245 ballots submitted, only 125 opposed the new salary schedule proposed recently by the Kingston Teachers Association and Kingston Teachers Federation, Alexander Banyo, president of the association, reported.

Banyo appeared before the board with Richard Mason, president of the federation; Mary Kelly, Robert Tucker and Victor Mahoney, members of the teachers salary revision committee, and Attorney Arthur B. Ewig, counsel for the teachers, to urge adoption of the proposed schedule.

Teacher Ballot Held

The new schedule, calling for increases averaging approximately $1,000 per teacher for the year 1954-55, was also approved by 228 of the city's 236 teachers, Banyo said. Three others accepted conditionally, two of them expressing the view that 20 steps were too many and that teachers should not have to wait 20 years to reach maximum pay. There were no answers from five, one of whom was in the hospital, Banyo said.

"The school system you want and the system we will have depends upon you," Banyo told the board.

If the schedule were adopted, he stated, "never" in the foreseeable future "will we have the problem of getting the best teachers."

Cites 'New Incentive'

He said morale would be improved and Kingston teachers would find "new incentive," pointing out that a "professional salary" would be the basis of "many fine things in the future."

Banyo explained that the teachers had been "asked" by the board to obtain a statement of public opinion and that the ballots received to date indicated a clear mandate in favor of the proposed salary schedule are "substantial taxpayers," according to Banyo.

"We are thinking of the school system. We cannot have the best system unless we can attract the best type of teacher—and the

Anxious to Know Whether Political Connections Helped in Curran Track Deal

An editorial in the Albany Knickerbocker Press, published Thursday, calls on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to be as prompt with questions in the raceway case as he was in demanding explanations of Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city about his visits to Joseph Fay in Sing Sing prison.

Calling Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran directly responsible to the governor, the newspaper would have him tell the chief executive of the state about circumstances relative to his receiving $10,000 for introducing two lawyers representing racing interests, and would like to know whether his "modest service to the racing interests would have been so valuable if he had not been secretary of state, and if he had not been the party leader in New York county?"

Governor Dewey called on Senator Wicks to resign as Senate Majority Leader for calling on Fay in jail, as the Senator explained, to try to settle labor disputes in his district. Wicks, through the governor's insistence, also had to surrender his post as acting lieutenant governor, following swearing-in ceremonies after he stepped into the post when Frank Moore resigned.

The Editorial

The Knickerbocker editorial, entitled Politics and Profit: The Raceway Twins, is as follows:

If the citizens of this state aren't too groggy to feel the impact of a couple more punches to the solar plexus, they must be staggered anew by disclosures of exorbitant profits reaped by those "folks in the know" on harness racing and an admission by Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran that he received $10,000 merely for introducing two lawyers representing racing interests.

Regarding Mr. Curran's peculiar social-fiscal attainment, several questions must be asked. He is head of the Department of State, under which are the divisions of the State Racing Commission, and the Division of State Harness Racing Commission. He also is Re-

Laidlaw's Bid Is Based On '55 Need

Superintendent Reports $25,000 Estimated —City Counsel Gives Salary Opinion

The Kingston Board of Education has been asked to consider the reconditioning of School No. 8 in order to meet the needs of heavy registration anticipated in 1955.

Superintendent of Education Arthur H. Laidlaw suggested last night that the board consider making the building available, in case of need.

Reconditioning would cost an estimated $25,000. The roof needs repairing, the floors would have to be refinished and a cafeteria installed, the superintendent said.

Might Have to Rent

If the building were not available it might be necessary to rent additional space for classrooms in "church basements" or "fire stations," etc., Laidlaw pointed out.

School No. 8 would be "far better than anything else we could rent," he told the board.

Laidlaw also told the board that five new teachers would be needed in the school system next year—three on the third grade level and two in the Myron J. Michael School, seventh grade level.

The most serious problem will be in the MJM School, he said. A partition between the school library and one of the classrooms was taken out to enlarge the library. It must now be restored —but this will provide for only one teacher. There will be need for a second additional classroom, for which no space is available.

1959 Is Crucial

Laidlaw said registration in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the city system had dropped off a little, but that the second grade will reach the MJM School in 1959, producing an even more serious problem there. Availability of School No. 8 could relieve the situation.

Attorney Louis Bruhn, a member of the board, presented a letter from Corporation Counsel James A. Abernethy in which Abernethy pointed out that the present teacher salary schedule

Wilson Says Any Idea of Coddling Of Reds by U. S. Army 'Tommyrot'

Washington, March 5 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says any "idea the army is coddling Communists is just damn tommyrot" but that he is looking for better ways to handle security-risks in the future.

Wilson snapped out the "tommyrot" comment at a news conference yesterday during which he was questioned about the case of Maj. Irving Peress, army dentist who invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about possible subversive connections. Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.), investigating the case, has sharply criticized the army.

The Pentagon chief's comment stirred McCarthy, who only a few minutes before had vowed he was "all through" issuing statements, to retort that "no one has ever claimed that the army as such is coddling Communists." But McCarthy insisted, testimony had established that "certain individuals in the army have been protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists." The senator said he was sure the secretary "will not disagree with that."

Because McCarthy's was the final statement of the day, there was no immediate indication whether Wilson did or did not agree.

But in his news conference, devoted this week to the sole subject of Communism, Wilson did say:

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about Communism. Peress was inducted and commissioned under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically, responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case —but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident, from Peress right through, so we'll know the facts, so we can handle things better in the future. . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem; you wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several thorny points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

The policy, as it stands now, is that if a volunteer for enlistment refuses to state whether he has or has had Communist connections, he is refused acceptance by the army. If a draftee comes up for induction and refuses to answer the questions he is inducted, but assigned to a non-sensitive (no military security involved) job.

A second policy, applying to officers, was established by Secretary Stevens Feb. 20, and circulated to all army commands, with instructions that handling of cases covered by it "be expedited." The order under that policy is that officers found to be security risks be given discharge "other than honorable." It specifies that refusal to sign the loyalty certificate or invoking of the Fifth Amendment shall be considered sufficient evidence that the officer is a security risk. Its final clause announces that where there is con-

Two A. & P. Markets to Close Indefinitely Saturday at 6

Kingston's two A. & P. supermarkets will close at 6 p. m. Saturday and will remain closed until further notice as a result of a truck drivers' strike at the firm's Albany warehouse.

The warehouse, which serves this district, has been closed since Monday, when 200 members of the AFL Brotherhood of Teamsters walked off their jobs.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, which operates the food retail chain of A. & P. stores, announced today that "it will be necessary to close temporarily all A. & P. stores served by our Albany warehouse, effective Saturday, March 6, at 6 p. m. We are forced to close only because we are unable to operate the warehouse."

The firm operates markets at 91 North Front street and at 106-110 Prince street in Kingston, both of which will be affected, according to John L. Wood, manager of the uptown store. Wood said he has received no notification as to the expected length of the closing, but that it will be "until further notice."

Both local stores will be open for business as usual today, tonight, and tomorrow. Regular closing time on Saturday is 6 p. m.

In its announcement today, A. & P. said it took the step "with the utmost reluctance," but "had no alternative."

More than 4,000,000,000 one-pound loaves of bread can be made from 2,000,000 tons, about 75,000,000 bushels, of wheat.

Guatemala Takes Stand Against U. S.

Caracas, Venezuela, March 5 (AP) —Guatemala accused the United States today of seeking to intervene in its domestic affairs by asking the Inter-American Conference here to discuss Communist penetration in the Western Hemisphere.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello, singled out the United States in a stinging speech at the conference's third plenary session as the leader of forces which want to attack the political and economic freedom of Latin America.

Toriella said he considered the placing of the Communist issue on the agenda as "a maneuver against Guatemala which has been maliciously and unjustly accused of being Communist..."

Called Pretext Move

"We are of the opinion," he continued, "that the topic was only a pretext for intervention in our internal affairs. If accepted (by the conference) it would make Pan-Americanism an instrument for the exclusive service of monopolistic interests."

United States officials have accused Guatemala of following the Communist line and have charged that Reds occupy many positions of power in that central American country.

Asserting that Guatemala would defend "Democratic principles," Toriello said his nation was being attacked by those who shout "communism whenever a Latin American Republic seeks to assert its nationalism and economic independence and attempts to put into effect liberal social reforms."

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told reporters that if the Guatemalan foreign minister meant what he said about defending Democratic principles, "they should support our resolution." The reference was to an anti-Communist resolution not yet introduced.

publican leader of New York county (Manhattan).

In Official Family

Mr. Curran is an appointive member of Gov. Dewey's official family—a member for whom the governor is directly and officially responsible. Will Mr. Dewey be as prompt to demand explanations in this case as he was in the case of Arthur H. Wicks, who was a member of an independent body, the Legislature, and whose transgressions did not involve a personal profit motive?

Would Mr. Curran's modest service to the racing interest have been so valuable if he had not been secretary of state, and if he had not been the party leader in New York county?

We don't know whether accepting such a fee was illegal. But, please pass the Airwick.

Fabulous Profits

Turning to the fabulous profits derived from raceway investments we find one man who realized $600,000 on a $12,000 outlay in seven years. Another reaped a harvest of $207,200 in eight years on a $5,600 investment.

Racing in this state is supposed to be a controlled monopoly, basically the same as the various public utilities. Nobody can operate a track without state permission, and yet it is clear that with respect to the raceways the state government functioned only to limit competition without regard for the parallel responsibility of protecting the public.

Answer to Mess

What would happen for example, if Consolidated Edison or AT and T started paying dividends annually worth many times as much as the investment. The answer to that one is easy; the state would step in and slash rates drastically. But, nobody in government was concerned that a racing monopoly, state controlled, was permitted to pour into private coffers those profits that should have enriched the state treasury.

There, obviously is the answer to this whole noisome mess. Take the huge profit out of racing and you remove its attraction for undesirables as well as its allure for politicians of easy conscience. It can be done, if Gov. Dewey and the Legislature want to do it.

Exam Is Announced

The U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Military Academy, West Point, today announced an examination is scheduled for stenographer and typists positions for indefinite appointment. The salaries are $2,500, or $2,750, $2,950 and $3,175. The positions are in federal agencies in Ulster, Orange, Sullivan, Rockland, Dutchess, Putnam and Westchester counties. Applications will be accepted by the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Military Academy, West Point "until the needs of the service have been met."

Search Is Made

Nice, France, March 5 (AP)—A broad search was pressed over the Ligurian Sea and the French Alps today for a U. S. Air Force C47, missing with 20 men on a flight from Rome to Bitburg, Germany. A mid-morning report that the craft had been spotted in the mountains north of Nice proved false. Police said the report came from authorities in the village of St. Etienne de Tinee, 40 miles north of Nice and six miles from the Alpine ski resort of Auron.

Curran Would Appear Again Before Moreland Commission

New York, March 5 (AP)—State Secretary Thomas J. Curran asked today to be allowed to appear again before the Moreland Act Commission investigating Harness racing operations.

Curran, who testified Tuesday to receiving a $10,000 fee in connection with the sale of land now occupied by Yonkers Raceway, said in a letter to the commission:

"It would be unfair to draw inferences from a few minutes of testimony, giving a partial picture."

Bruce Bromley, commission chairman, said Curran would be invited to testify Monday or Tuesday if his application is approved.

Curran said in his letter:

"I have been disturbed by reports in the press concerning the temporary nominal title, but not possession or actual ownership, of 500 shares of Algam Corp. by my wife and the inferences concerning a legal fee of $10,000 which was paid to me in connection with the sale of real estate to Algam Corp.

Cites 'Custom'

"It has been the immutable custom of previous secretaries of state in this state, who were lawyers, to practice law. I have done so and both the bar and the public know it,

"The narrow issue is whether there was any impropriety in my performing legal services in what was purely a real estate transaction between two corporations, neither of which was a licensed harness track, or otherwise regulated by any department.

"The fact is that my law firm worked for more than a year on this matter."

His testimony had indicated that he received the $10,000 for introducing a representative of a holding corporation to a lawyer for the owners of the land.

Says Own Record Good

Curran, who also is New York (Manhattan) county Republican chairman, said in his letter he had striven to "maintain the highest personal and public standards" during 30 years in public life."

"I was on the witness stand a total of 20 minutes. None of the other witnesses in either matter was called, and, as a result, completely inaccurate references have been drawn concerning both transactions.

"I should appreciate it if you would take this as an offer to appear at any hearing you may find desirable to hold on both matters, after the conclusion of the present hearings.

"After all available witnesses are heard and relevant evidence adduced, a finding can be made concerning the facts and the propriety of my conduct in both instances."

Wilson Says Army

flict with existing regulations, the Feb. 20 army policy shall govern.

But the Pentagon started for Capitol Hill yesterday proposed legislation which would provide for the retention in service—as enlisted men—anyone inducted under the doctors draft act even though they refused to answer questions about communism.

The Pentagon said the object of the legislation was to "remove any doubt that may exist as to the authority of the armed forces to retain and utilize in a professional capacity in an enlisted rank" any doctor or dentist who was drafted or ordered to active duty. This meant that the military wanted the current law changed so that it wouldn't by mandate, have to commission these men but could hold them in service, as enlisted men, in such security-free jobs as drilling teeth or dispensing pills.

McCarthy told his Senate Investigations subcommittee yesterday he is ready to show from testimony the army has had "a very contradictory system" of handling personnel suspected of Communist connections.

He said Peress got an honorable discharge, while a private who told his superiors he broke with communism as a teen-ager in high school got a less than honorable discharge, another private was kept in service although he refused to answer questions about communism and still another, a doctor, was assigned to duty at a hospital but denied an officer's commission.

The military already is involved in a suit by a dentist who was inducted under the doctor draft law and whom the army refused to commission after the dentist had waived the Fifth Amendment and said he had been a Communist party member. The dentist brought suit in Federal Court to compel the army either to commission him or release him from duty. The case is on appeal.

Reporters asked Wilson about contentions that Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, commander of Camp Kilmer, N. J., where Peress was stationed, had been browbeaten and abused by McCarthy when he appeared as a witness. Wilson said he hadn't read the transcript of the testimony, but that "I don't believe in browbeating or bullying anyone."

As to McCarthy's activities generally, he commented:

"I think the McCarthy committee is bringing to the attention of the country the fact that we do have this problem. If there are any main devils left I would like to see them caught rather than just the little people."

Provenzano Tells

people" who own the track own the Arsenal Hill Corp.

In Clerical Jobs

The witness said three of his sisters are employed in clerical capacities at the track. A brother, Jacob, gets $6,500 a year as an adviser to Arsenal Hill Corp., Wishman added.

Provenzano served as an assemblyman from Monroe county in 1938-40.

Yesterday J. Russel Sprague, former Republican national committeeman, told the commission he netted $194,000 in one year on harness track stock bought for $2,000. Sprague resigned his post last fall after a political storm blew up over his track holdings.

Wishman testified Provenzano owns 41.5 per cent of the Batavia Downs stock. Wishman said he owns 23 per cent, a James O'Mara 23 per cent, John O'Mara 7.5 per cent and Attorney Ira Morris owns the remaining five per cent.

Will Face Court

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of wounding five congressmen in Monday's wild shooting spree face a court today. Each has an opportunity to answer to a 10-count indictment, but their formal arraignment may be postponed if they have not arranged for attorneys to represent them. Amid indications of official concern yesterday that President Eisenhower and others may have been marked for terrorists' attacks, Atty. Gen. Brownell disclosed the Justice Department is studying possible ways to proceed against members of the small, fanatical Puerto Rican Nationalist party.

UPA Signs . . .

"follows modern trend in the grocery business" and would enable the firm to improve its service to members. He cited the location of the building, adequate approaches and parking facilities, a large freight elevator and the railroad siding as influential in the decision to move to the new quarters.

The present warehouse, with 13,500 square feet of floor space occupies five floors and a basement in the former Johnson Hardware building, formerly used as a wholesale warehouse.

The UPA, which now has 42 member stores in the area, was formed in 1935.

Praises Jump Leadership

Roberts paid tribute to H. C. Jump of Port Ewen, president of UPA since 1939, for his "splendid leadership and untiring efforts" in behalf of the organization. He also praised the board of directors, both past and present, for its guidance and the member stores for their loyalty and support "without which the present move would not have been possible."

Roberts recalled that in 1935 it was predicted the infant firm could not succeed "due to the presence of dissenting factions." However, its initial determination was so strong that the firm, despite many changes of locations and minor setbacks, was able to survive, Roberts said. "UPA success is attributable to its membership, now more solidified than ever."

Roberts was appointed general manager of the company in October, 1950. He is well-known in the area, having worked as a salesman for Standard Brands, Inc., for 15 years, advancing with that company and becoming grocery manager of its Watertown and Poughkeepie branches and, finally, sales manager of its Syracuse, Binghamton, Elmira, Utica and Watertown branches, supervising as many as 21 salesmen.

Expands Steadily

The firm has expanded steadily since its inception. Some of the key members of its staff have been with the store at least 10 years.

Officers of the firm, besides Jump, are: Milton Friedman, vice-president; Arthur Williams, secretary; Fred C. Lang, treasurer, and Jack Schleede, Nelson Bruce, John DeGasperis, Edwin Minasian, William Mower, Benjamin Rinaldi, Rudolph Rossler and J. N. Van-Gaasbeck, members.

Members of the UPA office staff. Mrs. Stella Coppo, office manager; Mrs. Margaret Bruck, office clerk; Mrs. Margaret Pieper, assistant office clerk; Paul Schleede, advertising manager.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 5 (AP)—Oils and railroads today for the second straight session led the stock market higher.

The market opened with prices steady, and during the morning and early afternoon there was gradual improvement.

Gains ran to around a point in several instances in key sections of the list. Losses usually were small.

Advancing with the oils and railroads were the coppers and aircrafts.

Westinghouse Electric was down between 2 and 3 points. The stock, which gained 7¼ points in previous sessions this week, opened on a block of 3,00 shares off a point at 62¾. The company reported a sharp drop in its operating profit for the last quarter of 1953. Earnings for the full year amounted to $4.53 a share as compared with $4.23 the previous year.

Car Strikes Rocks

Kusti Makelin, 41, of Ulster Park was apparently unhurt after his station wagon failed to negotiate the sharp curve and struck the rock embankment at the west end of the Mid-Hudson Bridge about 11:30 p. m. Thursday, state police of the Highland substation reported. The vehicle was considerably damaged and had to be towed away, troopers said. Makelin is the owner of the Mirror Lake Hotel that recently was destroyed by fire.

Physics Teacher Fooled University

Durham, N. H., March 5 (AP) — The University of New Hampshire disclosed today it had dismissed from it physics staff a man who it said taught here capably for more than a year even though he had not received more than a high school education.

A spokesman identified him as Marvin Hewitt, about 31, who posed as Dr. Kenneth P. Yates, presently engaged in industrial research "somewhere in Illinois."

University authorities said Hewitt told them he had a wife and three children in Philadelphia but "understand" he went to Hempstead, N. Y., from here.

Hewitt left Jan. 31 after his true identity became known because of the curiosity of an unidentified student.

The student was making a routine check of Dr. Yates' background and noticed the similarity between it and that presented by Hewitt. He informed a faculty member and an investigation was begun.

"Hewitt readily admitted his pose," said a spokesman.

"We called in the FBI because the man had been teaching advanced physics and relativity to graduate students, as well as undergraduates, and physics is a critical field nowadays.

"The FBI said the man's record was clean and that he had violated no law," the spokesman for the university added.

University authorities said they asked the man why he hadn't gone into industry because of his obvious knowledge and he is reported to have answered that he has "a compulsion to teach, that his father, a laboring man, did not believe in a college education so he trained himself."

Unions Defy . . .

cord is complicated by the support given to the AFL-ILA by the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters (IBT). The AFL ousted the old ILA last fall for failure to cleanse itself of racketeering elements. The AFL then set up the AFL-ILA.

Dimock's order directed the ILA and eight of its principal locals in New York city and New Jersey not to engage in strikes or other activities aimed at interference with the loading or unloading of trucks manned by members of Local 807 of the IBT.

Restrainer Asked

The regional office of the NLRB, acting under the secondary boycott provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, asked Dimock to restrain the ILA and its locals from continuing their blockade of trucks with Local 807 drivers.

Although the order did not apply to Local 807, it voluntarily withdrew its waterfront pickets as soon as the order was signed.

Dimock's order is effective until next Tuesday when the ILA will be called upon at a hearing to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued against it.

The current tieup has mushroomed since last Friday when members of the AFL-ILA set up a picket line at Pier 32 of the Moore-McCormack Line in protest against the dismissal of an AFL-ILA shop steward.

Local 807 of the IBT then ordered its members not to make deliveries to Pier 32 while the picket line was in force.. The ILA retaliated by boycotting Local 807 trucks on all other piers. The teamsters set up picket lines against the ILA. The picketing spread to a major part of the piers in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Staten Island and in Hoboken, N. J., and to harbor warehouses on both sides of the Hudson river.

Despite the dam on trucking, much other waterfront work still was being performed.

Guatemala Takes Stand Against U. S.

Caracas, Venezuela, March 5 (AP) —Guatemala accused the United States today of seeking to intervene in its domestic affairs by asking the Inter-American Conference here to discuss Communist penetration in the Western Hemisphere.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello, singled out the United States in a stinging speech at the conference's third plenary session as the leader of forces which want to attack the political and economic freedom of Latin America.

Toriella said he considered the placing of the Communist issue on the agenda as "a maneuver against Guatemala which has been maliciously and unjustly accused of being Communist..."

Called Pretext Move

"We are of the opinion," he continued, "that the topic was only a pretext for intervention in our internal affairs. If accepted (by the conference) it would make Pan-Americanism an instrument for the exclusive service of monopolistic interests."

United States officials have accused Guatemala of following the Communist line and have charged that Reds occupy many positions of power in that central American country.

Asserting that Guatemala would defend "Democratic principles," Toriello said his nation was being attacked by those who shout "communism whenever a Latin American Republic seeks to assert its nationalism and economic independence and attempts to put into effect liberal social reforms."

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told reporters that if the Guatemalan foreign minister meant what he said about defending Democratic principles, "they should support our resolution." The reference was to an anti-Communist resolution not yet introduced.

publican leader of New York county (Manhattan).

In Official Family

Mr. Curran is an appointive member of Gov. Dewey's official family—a member for whom the governor is directly and officially responsible. Will Mr. Dewey be as prompt to demand explanations in this case as he was in the case of Arthur H. Wicks, who was a member of an independent body, the Legislature, and whose transgressions did not involve a personal profit motive?

Would Mr. Curran's modest service to the racing interest have been so valuable if he had not been secretary of state, and if he had not been the party leader in New York county?

We don't know whether accepting such a fee was illegal. But, please pass the Airwick.

Fabulous Profits

Turning to the fabulous profits derived from raceway investments we find one man who realized $600,000 on a $12,000 outlay in seven years. Another reaped a harvest of $207,200 in eight years on a $5,600 investment.

Racing in this state is supposed to be a controlled monopoly, basically the same as the various public utilities. Nobody can operate a track without state permission, and yet it is clear that with respect to the raceways the state government functioned only to limit competition without regard for the parallel responsibility of protecting the public.

Answer to Mess

What would happen for example, if Consolidated Edison or AT and T started paying dividends annually worth many times as much as the investment. The answer to that one is easy; the state would step in and slash rates drastically. But, nobody in government was concerned that a racing monopoly, state controlled, was permitted to pour into private coffers those profits that should have enriched the state treasury.

There, obviously is the answer to this whole noisome mess. Take the huge profit out of racing and you remove its attraction for undesirables as well as its allure for politicians of easy conscience. It can be done, if Gov. Dewey and the Legislature want to do it.

Exam Is Announced

The U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Military Academy, West Point, today announced an examination is scheduled for stenographer and typists positions for indefinite appointment. The salaries are $2,500, or $2,750, $2,950 and $3,175. The positions are in federal agencies in Ulster, Orange, Sullivan, Rockland, Dutchess, Putnam and Westchester counties. Applications will be accepted by the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, U. S. Military Academy, West Point "until the needs of the service have been met."

Search Is Made

Nice, France, March 5 (AP)—A broad search was pressed over the Ligurian Sea and the French Alps today for a U. S. Air Force C47, missing with 20 men on a flight from Rome to Bitburg, Germany. A mid-morning report that the craft had been spotted in the mountains north of Nice proved false. Police said the report came from authorities in the village of St. Etienne de Tinee, 40 miles north of Nice and six miles from the Alpine ski resort of Auron.

Curran Would Appear Again Before Moreland Commission

New York, March 5 (AP)—State Secretary Thomas J. Curran asked today to be allowed to appear again before the Moreland Act Commission investigating Harness racing operations.

Curran, who testified Tuesday to receiving a $10,000 fee in connection with the sale of land now occupied by Yonkers Raceway, said in a letter to the commission:

"It would be unfair to draw inferences from a few minutes of testimony, giving a partial picture."

Bruce Bromley, commission chairman, said Curran would be invited to testify Monday or Tuesday if his application is approved.

Curran said in his letter:

"I have been disturbed by reports in the press concerning the temporary nominal title, but not possession or actual ownership, of 500 shares of Algam Corp. by my wife and the inferences concerning a legal fee of $10.000 which was paid to me in connection with the sale of real estate to Algam Corp.

Cites 'Custom'

"It has been the immutable custom of previous secretaries of state in this state, who were lawyers, to practice law. I have done so and both the bar and the public know it.

"The narrow issue is whether there was any impropriety in my performing legal services in what was purely a real estate transaction between two corporations, neither of which was a licensed harness track, or otherwise regulated by any department.

"The fact is that my law firm worked for more than a year on this matter."

His testimony had indicated that he received the $10,000 for introducing a representative of a holding corporation to a lawyer for the owners of the land.

Says Own Record Good

Curran, who also is New York (Manhattan) county Republican chairman, said in his letter he had striven to "maintain the highest personal and public standards" during 30 years in public life."

"I was on the witness stand a total of 20 minutes. None of the other witnesses in either matter was called, and, as a result, completely inaccurate references have been drawn concerning both transactions.

"I should appreciate it if you would take this as an offer to appear at any hearing you may find desirable to hold on both matters, after the conclusion of the present hearings.

"After all available witnesses are heard and relevant evidence adduced, a finding can be made concerning the facts and the propriety of my conduct in both instances."

Wilson Says Army

flict with existing regulations, the Feb. 20 army policy shall govern.

But the Pentagon started for Capitol Hill yesterday proposed legislation which would provide for the retention in service—as enlisted men—anyone inducted under the doctors draft act even though they refused to answer questions about communism.

The Pentagon said the object of the legislation was to "remove any doubt that may exist as to the authority of the armed forces to retain and utilize in a professional capacity in an enlisted rank" any doctor or dentist who was drafted or ordered to active duty. This meant that the military wanted the current law changed so that it wouldn't by mandate, have to commission these men but could hold them in service, as enlisted men, in such security-free jobs as drilling teeth or dispensing pills.

McCarthy told his Senate Investigations subcommittee yesterday he is ready to show from testimony the army has had "a very contradictory system" of handling personnel suspected of Communist connections.

He said Peress got an honorable discharge, while a private who told his superiors he broke with communism as a teen-ager in high school got a less than honorable discharge, another private was kept in service although he refused to answer questions about communism and still another, a doctor, was assigned to duty at a hospital but denied an officer's commission.

The military already is involved in a suit by a dentist who was inducted under the doctor draft law and whom the army refused to commission after the dentist had waived the Fifth Amendment and said he had been a Communist party member. The dentist brought suit in Federal Court to compel the army either to commission him or release him from duty. The case is on appeal.

Reporters asked Wilson about contentions that Brig. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, commander of Camp Kilmer, N. J., where Peress was stationed, had been browbeaten and abused by McCarthy when he appeared as a witness. Wilson said he hadn't read the transcript of the testimony, but that "I don't believe in browbeating or bullying anyone."

As to McCarthy's activities generally, he commented:

"I think the McCarthy committee is bringing to the attention of the country the fact that we do have this problem. If there are any main devils left I would like to see them caught rather than just the little people."

people" who own the track own the Arsenal Hill Corp.

In Clerical Jobs

The witness said three of his sisters are employed in clerical capacities at the track. A brother, Jacob, gets $6,500 a year as an adviser to Arsenal Hill Corp., Wishman added.

Provenzano served as an assemblyman from Monroe county in 1938-40.

Yesterday J. Russel Sprague, former Republican national committeeman, told the commission he netted $194,000 in one year on harness track stock bought for $2,000. Sprague resigned his post last fall after a political storm blew up over his track holdings.

Wishman testified Provenzano owns 41.5 per cent of the Batavia Downs stock. Wishman said he owns 23 per cent, a James O'Mara 23 per cent, John O'Mara 7.5 per cent and Attorney Ira Morris owns the remaining five per cent.

Will Face Court

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of wounding five congressmen in Monday's wild shooting spree face a court today. Each has an opportunity to answer to a 10-count indictment, but their formal arraignment may be postponed if they have not arranged for attorneys to represent them. Amid indications of official concern yesterday that President Eisenhower and others may have been marked for terrorists' attacks, Atty. Gen. Brownell disclosed the Justice Department is studying possible ways to proceed against members of the small, fanatical Puerto Rican Nationalist party.

UPA Signs . . .

"follows modern trend in the grocery business" and would enable the firm to improve its service to members. He cited the location of the building, adequate approaches and parking facilities, a large freight elevator and the railroad siding as influential in the decision to move to the new quarters.

The present warehouse, with 13,500 square feet of floor space occupies five floors and a basement in the former Johnson Hardware building, formerly used as a wholesale warehouse.

The UPA, which now has 42 member stores in the area, was formed in 1935.

Praises Jump Leadership

Roberts paid tribute to H. C. Jump of Port Ewen, president of UPA since 1939, for his "splendid leadership and untiring efforts" in behalf of the organization. He also praised the board of directors, both past and present, for its guidance and the member stores for their loyalty and support "without which the present move would not have been possible."

Roberts recalled that in 1935 it was predicted the infant firm could not succeed "due to the presence of dissenting factions." However, its initial determination was so strong that the firm, despite many changes of locations and minor setbacks, was able to survive, Roberts said. "UPA success is attributable to its membership, now more solidified than ever."

Roberts was appointed general manager of the company in October, 1950. He is well-known in the area, having worked as a salesman for Standard Brands, Inc., for 15 years, advancing with that company and becoming grocery manager of its Watertown and Poughkeepie branches and, finally, sales manager of its Syracuse, Binghamton, Elmira, Utica and Watertown branches, supervising as many as 21 salesmen.

Expands Steadily

The firm has expanded steadily since its inception. Some of the key members of its staff have been with the store at least 10 years.

Officers of the firm, besides Jump, are: Milton Friedman, vice-president; Arthur Williams, secretary; Fred C. Lang, treasurer, and Jack Schleede, Nelson Bruce, John DeGasperis, Edwin Minasian, William Mower, Benjamin Rinaldi, Rudolph Rossler and J. N. Van-Gaasbeck, members.

Warehouse staff: Thomas Leahy, foreman; Walter Arnst, shipping clerk; Edward Reilley, receiving clerk; Gene Caruso and Frank Hogan, stock clerks.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 5 (AP)—Oils and railroads today for the second straight session led the stock market higher.

The market opened with prices steady, and during the morning and early afternoon there was gradual improvement.

Gains ran to around a point in several instances in key sections of the list. Losses usually were small.

Advancing with the oils and railroads were the coppers and aircrafts.

Westinghouse Electric was down between 2 and 3 points. The stock, which gained 7¼ points in previous sessions this week, opened on a block of 3,00 shares off a point at 62⅜. The company reported a sharp drop in its operating profit for the last quarter of 1953. Earnings for the full year amounted to $4.53 a share as compared with $4.23 the previous year.

Car Strikes Rocks

Kusti Makelin, 41, of Ulster Park was apparently unhurt after his station wagon failed to negotiate the sharp curve and struck the rock embankment at the west end of the Mid-Hudson Bridge about 11:30 p. m. Thursday, state police of the Highland substation reported. The vehicle was considerably damaged and had to be towed away, troopers said. Makelin is the owner of the Mirror Lake Hotel that recently was destroyed by fire.

Physics Teacher Fooled University

Durham, N. H., March 5 (AP) — The University of New Hampshire disclosed today it had dismissed from it physics staff a man who it said taught here capably for more than a year even though he had not received more than a high school education.

A spokesman identified him as Marvin Hewitt, about 31, who posed as Dr. Kenneth P. Yates, presently engaged in industrial research "somewhere in Illinois."

University authorities said Hewitt told them he had a wife and three children in Philadelphia but "understand" he went to Hempstead, N. Y., from here.

Hewitt left Jan. 31 after his true identity became known because of the curiosity of an unidentified student.

The student was making a routine check of Dr. Yates' background and noticed the similarity between it and that presented by Hewitt. He informed a faculty member and an investigation was begun.

"Hewitt readily admitted his pose," said a spokesman.

"We called in the FBI because the man had been teaching advanced physics and relativity to graduate students, as well as undergraduates, and physics is a critical field nowadays.

"The FBI said the man's record was clean and that he had violated no law," the spokesman for the university added.

University authorities said they asked the man why he hadn't gone into industry because of his obvious knowledge and he is reported to have answered that he has "a compulsion to teach, that his father, a laboring man, did not believe in a college education so he trained himself."

Unions Defy . . .

cord is complicated by the support given to the AFL-ILA by the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters (IBT). The AFL ousted the old ILA last fall for failure to cleanse itself of racketeering elements. The AFL then set up the AFL-ILA.

Dimock's order directed the ILA and eight of its principal locals in New York city and New Jersey not to engage in strikes or other activities aimed at interference with the loading or unloading of trucks manned by members of Local 807 of the IBT.

Restrainer Asked

The regional office of the NLRB, acting under the secondary boycott provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act, asked Dimock to restrain the ILA and its locals from continuing their blockade of trucks with Local 807 drivers.

Although the order did not apply to Local 807, it voluntarily withdrew its waterfront pickets as soon as the order was signed.

Dimock's order is effective until next Tuesday when the ILA will be called upon at a hearing to show cause why a temporary injunction should not be issued against it.

The current tieup has mushroomed since last Friday when members of the AFL-ILA set up a picket line at Pier 32 of the Moore-McCormack Line in protest against the dismissal of an AFL-ILA shop steward.

Local 807 of the IBT then ordered its members not to make deliveries to Pier 32 while the picket line was in force. The ILA retaliated by boycotting Local 807 trucks on all other piers. The teamsters set up picket lines against the ILA. The picketing spread to a major part of the piers in Manhattan, Brooklyn and Staten Island and in Hoboken, N. J., and to harbor warehouses on both sides of the Hudson river.

Despite the dam on trucking, much other waterfront work still was being performed.

Favors Drunkometer

New York, March 5 (AP)—A magistrate has upheld the drunkometer as both constitutional and reliable—and as a result the first motorist to be tested by the device in New York city will be sentenced today for drunken driving. Magistrate Peter M. Horn yesterday found Henry Kovacik, 46, of Ardsley, N. Y., guilty of driving while intoxicated. Horn ruled that use of the drunkometer complied with the law and it is a "scientifically reliable and accurate device for determining the alcoholic content of a defendan't blood." The test consists of blowing into the instrument, which measures alcoholic content. The case of Kovacik, given the test last Nov. 17 when arrested by police, is the first involving the drunkometer to go to court here. It has been regarded as a test case.

present salary schedule cannot attract the best."

He argued that the need for teachers was increasing throughout the state and the best teachers would naturally go to communities which could offer the best salaries.

Automatic Schedule Urged

He said the teachers were asking for the automatic schedule of promotion each year rather than promotion based on merit standards, explained that it was difficult to render a decision as to the fitness of an individual. Generally speaking, he said, teachers are very serious about their jobs and very few fail to render good service.

Banyo also pointed out that the teachers were asking additional sums for advanced training, explaining that 73 teachers had their master's degrees and 163 had AB's or less. "A school system is judged by the number of teachers going for advanced degrees." Fewer than 50 per cent of Kingston teachers are working toward advanced degrees, he said.

Out of 54 cities in the state as of September, 1953, 29 grant their teachers additional sums for extra training, he said.

Discusses Comparisons

Pointing out that comparisons with other cities were difficult and that favorable and unfavorable results could be obtained, some cities paying their teachers more and some less than Kingston, Banyo asked, "What kind of system do we want?" Do we want to compare our system with those whose standards are lower than ours or higher? he asked.

Comparisons are individous, Banyon said, pointing out that he did not want to compare teachers income with wages paid to labor, that "most teachers are from laboring families" and "labor should get all it can." He said he felt, however, that teachers were doing a professional job and should receive professional salaries.

"We are professionals and want the best possible school system—which can be obtained only by a professional schedule."

He told the board that of 21 war veterans in the system only seven had received additional credit for such service, which "causes a bad morale situation. Fair treatment demands that all get or not get."

He said teachers felt the community should take action and "do something" for the teachers and not "wait" for state aid. He also asked the board to consider the teachers in the distribution of any funds remaining in the budget at the end of the school year.

Quotes Bulletin

Banyo quoted as follows from a Public Education research bulletin published December 1, 1953, by the New York State Teachers Association:

"School Board Standards. Next to the community itself probably no other factor is as important in determining quality as the educational standards of the school board itself. The sense of values of the school board will be reflected in the competence of its administrators, the choice made in spending, the care with which personnel are selected, inducted into service, and improved while in service, and other critical decisions.

"Competence of Management. Preparing a well conceived budget, weighing possible choices in spending, securing the most competent teachers and other employes, stimulating the rendering of outstanding service, purchasing items which add most to the effectiveness of instruction, and subordinating outlays which make no direct contribution to educational results, all require careful staff work by competent administrators.

"Factors Associated with High Quality. High costs, when accompanied by high community educational standards, competent administration, high standards for teacher selection, retention of the best teachers, good teacher morale, an effective program of teacher improvement, reasonable class size, special services for pupils, such as health services, adequate books, supplies, and other instructional aids, satisfactory facilities for learning, and other elements of this kind, mean high quality schools."

Report Submitted

In presenting the report of the teachers salary revision committee, Mason pointed out that immediate objectives in the schedule were:

"To approach a professional level of salaries for all teachers.

"To encourage and reward continuous educational improvement.

"To establish a schedule which will attract the best teachers to our community.

"To achieve these goals at the maximum economy for the taxpayer.

"We feel that we combined all these objectives as effectively as can be done. It should be emphasized that this schedule represents our minimum economic goals, and it is not to be interpreted as a bargaining offer in any way." A copy of the proposed salary schedule was attached to the report.

Emphasizes Vote

Ewig emphasized the number of petitions received, calling attention to the overwhelmingly favorite vote expressed by them and urged the board to "take a bold step."

He said the situation demanded a "substantial increase" in the salary schedule of Kingston teachers.

Ewig told the board that if it failed to take action at this time it might have a problem in four or five years that it would "never be able to meet."

"Th board should be bold and courageous and act favorably now."

He said for a teacher who had obtained his master's degree and had spent 20 years in the teaching profession the amount of $7,500 proposed for such a level was "not excessive."

He asked the board to permit teacher representatives to sit with it at its deliberations pointing out that the teachers could be of assistance to the board and "you can be a help to us."

President Clarence S. Rowland said in reply to a question by Ewig that the new schedule would ready about April 15.

Godfrey Loses His License 6 Months

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board decided today to suspend Arthur Godfrey's pilot certificate for six months, effective March 16, as a penalty for careless flying at Teterboro, N. J., Airport Jan. 7.

The action came in the form of a recommended decision by CAB Safety Examiner Albert H. Ruppar. Godfrey has the right of appeal, but a recommended decision by a safety examiner customarily is adopted by the board as its own decision.

The recommended penalty was surprisingly severe in view of the fact that the Civil Aeronautics Administration had asked for a suspension of "at least 30 days."

must be deemed an "automatic" one. That is, teachers are advanced automatically from one pay grade to the next higher.

It was Abernethy's opinion, however, that the teachers advisory committee on promotional increments is a "continuing organization," that is a "permanent committee."

Bruhn suggested that the Abernethy opinion be communicated to the chairman of the teachers advisory committee which recently expressed the view that it was defunct.

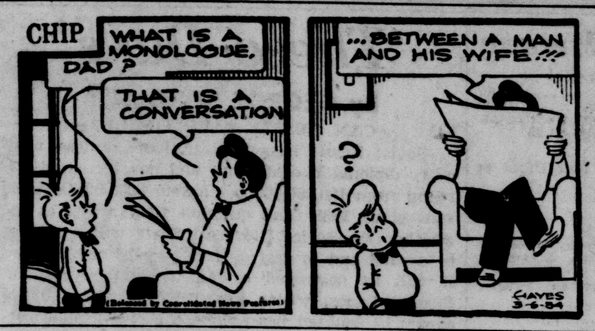
A salary schedule for engineer, head janitor, janitors and janitresses, as proposed April, 1953, by the chairman of the building committee, was approved.



General Gives Eyes

Washington, March 5 (AP)—If Maj. Gen. William Dean has his way, his eyes will enable some blind person one day to see the world again. Walter Reed Army Hospital said yesterday the general, while he was being treated at the hospital for an eye ailment he contracted during his captivity by Communists in Korea, became impressed with the work done in restoring sight by transplanting corneas. So the general has willed his eyes to the hospital's eye bank. And Mrs. Dean, who lost one eye in an accident, also has arranged for her remaining eye to go to the bank on her death.

Canada's Northwest Territories have an area of 1,309,682 square miles.

Ba..helor Ordered Held

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The army today ordered Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor held for a pre-trial investigation of alleged misconduct and aiding the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea.

Favors Drunkometer

New York, March 5 (AP)—A magistrate has upheld the drunkometer as both constitutional and reliable—and as a result the first motorist to be tested by the device in New York city will be sentenced today for drunken driving. Magistrate Peter M. Horn yesterday found Henry Kovacik, 46, of Ardsley, N. Y., guilty of driving while intoxicated. Horn ruled that use of the drunkometer complied with the law and it is a "scientifically reliable and accurate device for determining the alcoholic content of a defendan't blood." The test consists of blowing into the instrument, which measures alcoholic content. The case of Kovacik, given the test last Nov. 17 when arrested by police, is the first involving the drunkometer to go to court here. It has been regarded as a test case.

He argued that the need for teachers was increasing throughout the state and the best teachers would naturally go to communities which could offer the best salaries.

Automatic Schedule Urged

He said the teachers were asking for the automatic schedule of promotion each year rather than promotion based on merit standards, explained that it was difficult to render a decision as to the fitness of an individual. Generally speaking, he said, teachers are very serious about their jobs and very few fail to render good service.

Banyo also pointed out that the teachers were asking additional sums for advanced training, explaining that 73 teachers had their master's degrees and 163 had AB's or less. "A school system is judged by the number of teachers going for advanced degrees." Fewer than 50 per cent of Kingston teachers are working toward advanced degrees, he said.

Out of 54 cities in the state as of September, 1953, 29 grant their teachers additional sums for extra training, he said.

Discusses Comparisons

Pointing out that comparisons with other cities were difficult and that favorable and unfavorable results could be obtained, some cities paying their teachers more and some less than Kingston, Banyo asked, "What kind of system do we want?" Do we want to compare our system with those whose standards are lower than ours or higher? he asked.

Comparisons are individous, Banyon said, pointing out that he did not want to compare teachers income with wages paid to labor, that "most teachers are from laboring families" and "labor should get all it can." He said he felt, however, that teachers were doing a professional job and should receive professional salaries.

"We are professionals and want the best possible school system—which can be obtained only by a professional schedule."

He told the board that of 21 war veterans in the system only seven had received additional credit for such service, which "causes a bad morale situation. Fair treatment demands that all get or not get."

He said teachers felt the community should take action and "do something" for the teachers and not "wait" for state aid. He also asked the board to consider the teachers in the distribution of any funds remaining in the budget at the end of the school year.

Quotes Bulletin

Banyo quoted as follows from a Public Education research bulletin published December 1, 1953, by the New York State Teachers Association:

"School Board Standards. Next to the community itself probably no other factor is as important in determining quality as the educational standards of the school board itself. The sense of values of the school board will be reflected in the competence of its administrators, the choice made in spending, the care with which personnel are selected, inducted into service, and improved while in service, and other critical decisions.

"Competence of Management. Preparing a well conceived budget, weighing possible choices in spending, securing the most competent teachers and other employes, stimulating the rendering of outstanding service, purchasing items which add most to the effectiveness of instruction, and subordinating outlays which make no direct contribution to educational results, all require careful staff work by competent administrators.

"Factors Associated with High Quality. High costs, when accompanied by high community educational standards, competent administration, high standards for teacher selection, retention of the best teachers, good teacher morale, an effective program of teacher improvement, reasonable class size, special services for pupils, such as health services, adequate books, supplies, and other instructional aids, satisfactory facilities for learning, and other elements of this kind, mean high quality schools."

Report Submitted

In presenting the report of the teachers salary revision committee, Mason pointed out that immediate objectives in the schedule were:

"To approach a professional level of salaries for all teachers.

"To encourage and reward continuous educational improvement.

"To establish a schedule which will attract the best teachers to our community.

"To achieve these goals at the maximum economy for the taxpayer.

"We feel that we combined all these objectives as effectively as can be done. It should be emphasized that this schedule represents our minimum economic goals, and it is not to be interpreted as a bargaining offer in any way." A copy of the proposed salary schedule was attached to the report.

Emphasizes Vote

Ewig emphasized the number of petitions received, calling attention to the overwhelmingly favorite vote expressed by them and urged the board to "take a bold step."

He said the situation demanded a "substantial increase" in the salary schedule of Kingston teachers.

Ewig told the board that if it failed to take action at this time it might have a problem in four or five years that it would "never be able to meet."

"Th board should be bold and courageous and act favorably now."

He said for a teacher who had obtained his master's degree and had spent 20 years in the teaching profession the amount of $7,500 proposed for such a level was "not excessive."

He asked the board to permit teacher representatives to sit with it at its deliberations pointing out that the teachers could be of assistance to the board and "you can be a help to us."

President Clarence S. Rowland said in reply to a question by Ewig that the new schedule would ready about April 15.

Godfrey Loses His License 6 Months

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board decided today to suspend Arthur Godfrey's pilot certificate for six months, effective March 16, as a penalty for careless flying at Teterboro, N. J., Airport Jan. 7.

The action came in the form of a recommended decision by CAB Safety Examiner Albert H. Ruppar. Godfrey has the right of appeal, but a recommended decision by a safety examiner customarily is adopted by the board as its own decision.

The recommended penalty was surprisingly severe in view of the fact that the Civil Aeronautics Administration had asked for a suspension of "at least 30 days."

ASIAN DEFENSE AGAINST REDS

For a long time the United States and its European allies have been trying to extend the southern arc of their defensive line past Turkey into Asia proper. President Eisenhower's announcement of military aid to Pakistan is the first concrete result of this effort.

Another projected step that now seems certain to be taken is a military treaty between Turkey, a stout bastion in the NATO defense ring, and Pakistan. If Iraq or Iran or both could be brought into the line-up, as is desired by the NATO powers, the Middle East-Asiatic position of the free world would be notably strengthened.

Aid to Pakistan has, of course, been a subject of dispute for months. The government of India repeatedly has protested that arms for its neighbor constitute a threat to the peace and security of the Indian subcontinent.

Mr. Eisenhower has attempted to deal with this complaint by informing Prime Minister Nehru of Pakistan's pledge not to use arms against India. Nehru should be able to find comfort in this, if any of India's fears are sincerely rooted in doubt as to Pakistan's intentions.

There are signs, however, that most of these fears do not arise from any imagined Pakistani threat against India. They stem rather from the prospect that in a general war with the Soviet Union, Pakistan's inevitable participation would almost certainly involve India quickly.

Nehru cherishes the hope that India could somehow hold aloof from a general conflagration, at least long enough for the West to strike telling blows against Russia and prevent India from being overrun. He believes that an armed Pakistan, furnishing air bases to the West in wartime, would invite attack from Russian Turkestan. Such an assault, he feels, would engulf India itself.

The weakness in Nehru's reasoning is his notion that Russia would leave the Indian subcontinent alone if only Pakistan avoids the provocation of arming. War today is truly global. Only mountain fastnesses like Switzerland, or continental fringe areas like Sweden have any real prospect of neutrality—and that prospect may be smaller in a new war than it was in World Wars I and II.

India is a young independent, and its desire to pursue a separate course dedicated to the furtherance of its own national purposes is understandable. Yet it is not very realistic in this troubled age.

The West feels India would find better safeguard for its future within the defensive framework of the Western alliances. If the Indians insist upon disagreeing, we have no fair way to compel their favor. But we can reasonably ask that they not try to dictate to Pakistan or any other nation what it must do to protect itself in a world where marauding communism is loose.

There still remains the question of how the fool who was parted from his money got it in the first place!

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

James R. Barrett, chief of the New York State Division of Safety, declares that if every driver and pedestrian observed traffic laws the annual traffic toll would be reduced 85 to 90 per cent.

Most highway accidents occur because someone concerned has violated one or more of the traffic laws. Speeding, drinking drivers, improper passing, failure to give the right-of-way and disregard of traffic sign, signal or officer are some of the violations most often responsible for accidents.

Traffic laws exist to protect life and property of all users of the streets and highways. It is foolhardy to disregard or violate these laws and expect to remain safe in traffic.

The law that inconveniences you today may save your life tomorrow.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

CAN RUSSIA SAVE ITSELF?

Soviet Russia has, thus far, more or less, won every diplomatic conference and has increased its realm from 180,000,000 persons to 800,000,000 persons since 1938. The question then arises as to whether the Soviet Universal State will continue to expand and to destroy free peoples or whether it will be destroyed by an internal revolution. Eugene Lyons, whose knowledge of the subject cannot be doubted, has written a book, "Our Secret Allies," which is being widely read by our policy-makers and which sets out to tell the story of the seizure of Russia by the Bolsheviks and the inner resistance of the people to them.

Lyons belongs to the sentimental school of experts on Russia, which draws fine lines of distinction between the Kremlin and the millions over whom it rules. He almost treats the Kremlin as though it were the seat of an alien, conquering host. The Russians, while often admirable and always fascinating as individuals, have shown little capacity for freedom throughout their territory. Conquered by aliens and ruled by them for a thousand years, their society has accustomed itself to autocracy. After a few months of freedom to the point of anarchy in the Kerensky period, the Russians returned to the absolutism to which they are accustomed in a new and worse guise under Lenin and Trotzky, and after them Stalin and Malenkov. There has never been a democratic revolution, such as Western peoples have witnessed, in the whole of Russian history.

Eugene Lyons, once the United Press correspondent in Russia, then for many years the editor of "The American Mercury," is now a senior editor of "The Reader's Digest." In the late 1930's, his book "Assignment in Utopia" became a best-seller and an eye-opener for thousands of Americans hypnotized by their illusions about the "great experiment" in the USSR. His "Red Decade" is a most important contribution to the study of Communism. Therefore, when Lyons writes on Russia, he must be taken seriously even if one disagrees with his present position that the forces of revolution against the Kremlin are readying themselves inside Russia.

His thesis is that the overwhelming mass of Soviet citizens has never accepted the Red dictatorship. Despite nearly 40 years of propaganda and terror, despite the fact that a new generation has grown up, he argues that the regime has failed to win the loyalties of its subjects. What has been going on in Soviet Russia since 1917, Lyons said, is "a permanent civil war—in the first years open and military, since then largely concealed and political but even bloodier. Once you grasp this fact, much about the Soviet scene that seems baffling begins to make sense. The many millions who have perished in the struggle against the regime, whether finished off in police dungeons and slave camps and starved in man-made famine, are the casualties in that war. The great hordes of inmates of prison and concentration camps are its prisoners of war. The perennial purges, the liquidation of this or that class of the population, the abolition of entire 'republics' and 'autonomous regions' are battles in the war. And the incessant thunder of propaganda is the psychological offense that has become an essential part of modern warfare."

There are those who believe that the desire for liberty is ever existent in man and that while, for a period, he may submit to tyranny, ultimately he will strike out from freedom. Although there is evidence to support a phase of Lyons's theory, namely, that the Russian government has had to struggle to exist, there is no evidence that the opposition comes from the masses. It has been a conflict for power within the Communist Party. Nothing has yet appeared to prove that the millions of non-political persons living under a despotism will risk much for freedom. The 1917 Revolutions were not mass uprisings. The Kerensky government was the end of a palace revolution; the Bolshevik seizure of power was the effort of a small group of intellectuals. The Stalin purges were all against his associates in the party and government. Malenkov murdered Beria to get rid of a rival.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HEART DISEASE AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

I have written before of how life insurance companies either refuse to insure overweight men and women or else charge a larger premium in proportion to their overweight. These companies have learned that lean men live longer and it is by having their policyholders live longer that these companies are able to make more money for their policyholders.

From the Cardiographic Department of Mount Sinai Hospital, New York city, we learn the following facts that should help us to keep our weight within normal limits. "Statistics compiled by insurance companies have shown conclusively that overweight alone is injurious and shortens life. In middle and later life the lowest death rates were observed in those whose weight was below average for age. There is overwhelming evidence that obese persons have a much higher death rate from heart disease than those of average or lower weight. The difference has been as high as 60 per cent for men who are 25 per cent or more overweight."

In a series of 10,000 unselected persons, 28 per cent were found to be 10 per cent or more above their ideal weight according to sex and height.

In their report on the relationship of obesity and (coronary sclerosis) heart disease, they show the investigation of the blood pressures in 74,000 men gainfully employed in 16 industrial plants and Air Force fields. This report presents information showing the limits of normal blood pressure most recently proposed by Dr. Masters and associates. This large series of cases is representative of the present general population. It will be noticed that after the age of 40 women are definitely more obese than men. The group was divided into the the following classifications: underweight (10 per cent or more), average weight, overweight (10 to 24 per cent above average) and obese (25 or more per cent above average) according to the standard weight tables. The ages of the group serving as controls ranged between 20 and 64 years of age and 90 per cent of the patients also fell between these limits. Although some of the evidence is somewhat conflicting, the following facts were found:

"Overweight is much more common among men who suffer with heart disease than in the control groups, but independent research workers found that overweight predisposes the patient to angina pectoris (pain in chest) and congestive heart failure."

Overweight has been shown to use up more oxygen in doing an equal amount of work, increases the heart rate, blood pressure, and more work is done by the heart. Overweight reduces the amount of work the individual is able to do without getting out of breath. Loss of weight is usually very beneficial to patients with heart disease.

What are the conclusions of these research workers after this investigation? "Although obesity occurs more commonly in patients with high blood pressure or heart disease, the reports in the literature and their own reports show the importance of avoiding obesity where heart disease is present."

He'll Have a Hard Time Explaining This Failure

Edson's Washington News Notebook

Washingon (NEA) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles celebrated his birthday Thursday night, Feb. 25, with a quiet little family dinner at home. He was 66. That's one year past retirement age, but there was nothing that looked like retirement in the rugged birthday week which the secretary put in in Washington.

He got home from the man-killing Berlin conference on Friday night, Feb. 19. Saturday morning he put in at his office. That afternoon and all day Sunday he worked at home on his radio-TV report to the nation. Monday morning he spent with congressional leaders at the State Department. In the afternoon he worked on his speech some more, at home. Tuesday morning he held conferences on some Berlin cleanup matters. That afternoon he went to Capitol Hill to confer with House leaders. Wednesday morning he spent with Senate leaders, had lunch with, and reported to, President Eisenhower, and that night delivered his speech. Thursday he began briefings on the Caracas Inter-American conference. Friday, cabinet and National Security Council. Saturday, more briefings. Sunday, take-off for Caracas. A great life if you don't weaken. He enjoys it.

Hunting Protection

Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, as boss of the Secret Service, which protects the President, got to see how this organization worked when he invited President Eisenhower down to shoot quail at the Humphrey plantation in Georgia.

They kept the unusual tight guard around the President on his hunting trip. They made particularly sure that nobody near him ever fired a gun at a bird in any direction where the President might be hit by stray shot.

"But how did they behave?" Secretary Humphrey was asked after he returned to Washington.

"Oh, they were inconspicuous, all right," Secretary Humphrey reported. "That is, they were as inconspicuous as a group can be."

A Persian Lesson

Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) once an economic professor himself, is a leader in calling attention to the dangers of increasing unemployment and business recession. For this he has been charged indirectly with being a "Fear Dealer."

On the Senate floor the other day he made his reply with a short history lesson. "It was the custom of Persian kings," he said, "to put to death anyone who bore unfavorable news. So gradually the messengers brought only favorable news. The result was that the Persian kings became out of touch with developments, and ultimately the Persian Empire broke up.

"I wonder if those in possession of political power today will wake up to the realities of the situation? And I wonder whether they can, with profit, learn the lesson from history?"

Justice Cleanup

Department of Justice has replaced 650 of its 1,600 attorneys and most of the new men are Republicans. With the staff thus reorganized, there are further plans afoot for "cleaning up the mess," but most of them will have to wait on passage of new legislation, to strengthen the government's powers of prosecution.

Passage of a law authorizing the use of evidence obtained by wiretapping is expected to permit prosecution of a number of new Communist cases. They are said to involve persons not previously named.

More cases involving charges of corruption on tax matters are expected to be filed soon. They will involve Bureau of Internal Revenue officials of the Truman administration, and will probably be timed to provide GOP campaign ammunition.

High-Priced Java

Americans complaining about retail coffee prices of a dollar a pound and more in the United States have been told by National Committee for a Free Europe to look at coffee prices behind the Iron Curtain. They are $4.78 a pound in Soviet Russia, $6.47 in Romania, $13.54 in Hungary, $18.85 in Czechoslovakia and $45.45 in Poland.

Fat Chance for Swap

The proposed deal to sell some of America's surplus food products to Soviet Russia isn't completely dead yet. What has been turned down is a proposal to sell some of these surpluses for money, or Russian gold. If the Russians were to offer manganese or some other strategic material which the U. S. has in short supply—in exchange for surplus butter, cheese, wheat, corn or what have we—a swap might be arranged. But so far the Russians haven't made such an offer.

Today in Washington

All Talk, It Seems, by Army Regarding Peress Promotion Was 'Baloney'

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 5 — Well, they had five members of the Senate subcommittee instead of one on the job—as recently recommended by President Eisenhower.

They had a "code of fair procedure"—also as recommended.

The witness, Dr. Marvin Sanford Belsky, now in the army, was represented by counsel—also as recommended.

There was no "brow beating" of anybody. And yet the facts turned up at the Thursday hearing of the committee of which Senator McCarthy is chairman are these:

1. Dr. Belsky, an alleged Communist, refused to answer the army's questions about whether or not he was a Communist.

2. Dr. Belsky declined to tell the committee whether he aided the Communists in any way while in the army.

3. Dr. Belsky was not granted a promotion, though he applied for a commission, and he was never given any official reason for that refusal.

So it turns out that all the talk about how hard it was for the army to keep Dr. Irving Peress, dentist, known to the army as a Communist, from being promoted from captain to major or from being denied an honorable discharge was a lot of baloney.

Yet it didn't take the testimony of Dr. Belsky alone to prove that point. Charles E. Wilson, secretary of defense, came back to town and opened up with a free-swinging press conference that disclosed these unpleasant points:

1. That the army could have found a way to prevent Major Peress from getting a commission and that a court-martial could have been ordered.

2. That he ordered the 21 Americans who refused repatriation in Korea to be court-martialed when army lawyers were debating whether he could order a court-martial.

3. That, while legislation to keep Communists from getting honorable discharges or commissions would be helpful, the secretary of defense doesn't need it. He said: "I know how to get the Communists out of the army without legislation if I have to."

Then Mr. Wilson said that, while Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens was technically responsible, he knew Mr. Stevens had done the best he could with a "tough situation." As for the handling of witnesses, Mr. Wilson didn't think they should have to face "any such situation," namely vigorous cross-questioning by congressional committees. What may be inferred, of course, is that the army should be able to put officers on the witness stand who knew the score in such cases and thus avoid embarrassment for commanding officers who merely carry out orders that the legal branch of the army gives them.

In all this, the position of Mr. Stevens, secretary of the army, is deserving of real sympathy. He was out of the country while most of the row about Dr. Peress was going on. And, when he came back, he stated frankly that whatever errors had been made would be corrected and that certainly a way should be found to rid the army of Communists and keep any of them from getting honorable discharges. But he had not read the Zwicker testimony when he made his later comments about witnesses not being represented by counsel. He had not read what General Zwicker had said that exasperated Senator McCarthy. He didn't know that the army had not sent counsel to the hearings.

The whole episode is replete with the agressiveness of an interested press. Reporters ran back and forth from one controversialist to the other, paraphrasing comments in the haste of news gathering. The latest example was on Thursday when Secretary Wilson's comments were carried back to Senator McCarthy, who, without being advised of the entire statement by Mr. Wilson, impulsively let out a blast against what he thought was an unfriendly criticism by Mr. Wilson.

One wonders how much the country would be spared the kind of cat-and-dog-fight atmosphere it is reading about in the press if each of the principals would take time enough to read the official stenographic record of these hearings and the full texts of statements and then issue calm and deliberate statements rather than resort to off-the-cuff comments. Speed in gathering news can in this instance bring a disservice to all concerned, though the press is not to blame if public officials cannot restrain their comments and instead blurt out answers to questions that had best be deferred till they have all the facts.

So far as the politics of it all is concerned, it is to be noted that the Stevenson-Truman supporters in Congress and elsewhere have been active in fomenting for some time the idea of a break between the President and Senator McCarthy. Just why the President must be held responsible for the public statements of all Republicans is a mystery that can be explained only by the knowledge that the White House amateur's don't know how to deal with the professional trouble-makers who egg them on to get the President to denounce the Wisconsin senator repeatedly. One way to take the sting out of the Communist issue which is bothering the Democrats so much is to try to discredit the man who has dramatically exposed laxity in handling Communists in government.

What the Republicans who know their politics realize, of course, is that McCarthy the man may be disliked by his critics and enemies, but the issue which he raises is bigger than any man. To alienate Senator McCarthy is not difficult for the White House to do but to alienate some 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 voters who, according to recent public-opinion pools, agree with his views is to court political disaster. Many Republicans can do as they have done in the past—stay away from the polls. To the zealous followers of a leader on an emotional issue, there is no length to which an internal party squabble cannot be carried. The lesson of the third party and the 1912 Republican split surely has not been forgotten.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, March 4—On the topic of Senator McCarthy's row with the army administration under Secretary Stevens, I suggest, on the basis of background knowledge, that Stevens will gradually and painfully learn that he has been trying to defend a mess. Having committed himself, he is stuck as patron of conditions similar to those which the Roosevelt-Truman regime allowed to develop in State and other departments.

The army tradition is noble, but there is no sense in an arbitrary attitude after the disclosures of treachery almost everywhere else. Naturally the enemy would go to the army. And to the navy, too. As for the Marine Corps, they had their Red brigadier in the Pacific, and a good field soldier, too, though no better than most. He died of natural causes and he may have been the only Red in the corps but that seems doubtful in the face of the averages.

President Eisenhower looks more like U. S. Grant every day and he will be lucky if he doesn't wind up with scandals as bad as those which established for Grant the worst reputation as a President down to the time of F. D. Roosevelt. I am not smirking when I say let us pray that Eisenhower is not as dumb as he seems. I hope he makes a good President, not for his own sake primarily, but for ours.

In passing, however, wouldn't you agree that Ike is taking more than a reasonable amount of time off to play golf and relax? Wouldn't you criticize him for lending the prestige of the office which really is our own national treasure, not his personal property, to political pressure groups more often identified with the New Deal than with the Republican party? And for otherwise loafing on a job that calls for long hours of hard work as he certainly had been warned by Harry Truman's belly-aching about his terrible ordeal? I don't want a President to kill himself, but I notice that Truman, after all his yowling, recently boasted that he had never taken a sleeping pill or missed a wink in many years. At the age of 70, he can lead a straggling pack of younger men from the New York papers a mile up Park and down Lexington, so the job didn't take took much out of him. Anyway, you don't live forever and Ike asked for this job knowing that it was supposed to call for some anxiety, long hours and concentration. Incidentally, it never did follow that the rigors of the job killed Roosevelt. The same thing happens every day to people who are just going along.

This President of ours, being an old army man, is supposed to know more about the army as an institution than most of us. But he doesn't and he is going to wake up and discover that even the army has been infected all the way up to West Point, with the same doubts and queasy casuistry that rotted out the integrity of state, agriculture, justice and the treasury.

If Truman and Henry Morgenthau couldn't spot Harry Dexter White or couldn't believe the truth when it was told to them, how much better equipped is Ike when the same sort of reports come in about the army? Has Stevens any qualifications to judge such things? They had two major-generals in the war who have been seriously impugned in congressional disclosures since. One of them, a Roosevelt housepet, so well pleased Soviet Russia and the Communists in this country that to this day the Red papers mention him only in affectionate praise.

The other was tacitly accused of causing or concealing the truth about the disappearance of the report on the Katyn massacre in which almost the entire officer corps of the Polish army was destroyed by the Russians. There is not enough evidence to justify accusations of "communism" against such men. But the record is such that the department of the army certainly ought to do some detective work and cooperate with Congress instead of rearing back with snorts about the abuse of a brigadier.

The so-called cadet forum of the military academy ran an interesting show the night before the corps entrained for the Army-Navy game. They had Telford Taylor up to make a talk about congressional inquiries which wound up in the conventional blast of the New York Times, the Herald Tribune, the Roosevelt cult and, of course, all Reds and fellow-travelers, against Joe McCarthy. Taylor spoke especially on the Fort Monmouth situation. There was serious guilt at Monmouth but the Times, a Roosevelt, New Deal propaganda sheet from way back in '33, did a whitewash, more for the purpose, it seemed to me, of discrediting McCarthy than of getting at the guilt.

I have already sketched Taylor's career and revealed his association in the law business. One partner is Randolph Paull, who was the chief law officer of the treasury when Harry Dexter White was at the height of his power. Another is Simon Rifkin, an old secretary to Robert F. Wagner, the "author" of the original Labor Relations Act, and later a federal judge. As such, Rifkin let a man walk out of court absolutely free after he had pleaded guilty of sending

For a long time the United States and its European allies have been trying to extend the southern arc of their defensive line past Turkey into Asia proper. President Eisenhower's announcement of military aid to Pakistan is the first concrete result of this effort.

Another projected step that now seems certain to be taken is a military treaty between Turkey, a stout bastion in the NATO defense ring, and Pakistan. If Iraq or Iran or both could be brought into the line-up, as is desired by the NATO powers, the Middle East-Asiatic position of the free world would be notably strengthened.

Aid to Pakistan has, of course, been a subject of dispute for months. The government of India repeatedly has protested that arms for its neighbor constitute a threat to the peace and security of the Indian subcontinent.

Mr. Eisenhower has attempted to deal with this complaint by informing Prime Minister Nehru of Pakistan's pledge not to use arms against India. Nehru should be able to find comfort in this, if any of India's fears are sincerely rooted in doubt as to Pakistan's intentions.

There are signs, however, that most of these fears do not arise from any imagined Pakistani threat against India. They stem rather from the prospect that in a general war with the Soviet Union, Pakistan's inevitable participation would almost certainly involve India quickly.

Nehru cherishes the hope that India could somehow hold aloof from a general conflagration, at least long enough for the West to strike telling blows against Russia and prevent India from being overrun. He believes that an armed Pakistan, furnishing air bases to the West in wartime, would invite attack from Russian Turkestan. Such an assault, he feels, would engulf India itself.

The weakness in Nehru's reasoning is his notion that Russia would leave the Indian subcontinent alone if only Pakistan avoids the provocation of arming. War today is truly global. Only mountain fastnesses like Switzerland, or continental fringe areas like Sweden have any real prospect of neutrality—and that prospect may be smaller in a new war than it was in World Wars I and II.

India is a young independent, and its desire to pursue a separate course dedicated to the furtherance of its own national purposes is understandable. Yet it is not very realistic in this troubled age.

The West feels India would find better safeguard for its future within the defensive framework of the Western alliances. If the Indians insist upon disagreeing, we have no fair way to compel their favor. But we can reasonably ask that they not try to dictate to Pakistan or any other nation what it must do to protect itself in a world where marauding communism is loose.

There still remains the question of how the fool who was parted from his money got it in the first place!

TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

James R. Barrett, chief of the New York State Division of Safety, declares that if every driver and pedestrian observed traffic laws the annual traffic toll would be reduced 85 to 90 per cent.

Most highway accidents occur because someone concerned has violated one or more of the traffic laws. Speeding, drinking drivers, improper passing, failure to give the right-of-way and disregard of traffic sign, signal or officer are some of the violations most often responsible for accidents.

Traffic laws exist to protect life and property of all users of the streets and highways. It is foolhardy to disregard or violate these laws and expect to remain safe in traffic.

The law that inconveniences you today may save your life tomorrow.

'These Days'

CAN RUSSIA SAVE ITSELF?

Soviet Russia has, thus far, more or less, won every diplomatic conference and has increased its realm from 180,000,000 persons to 800,000,000 persons since 1938. The question then arises as to whether the Soviet Universal State will continue to expand and to destroy free peoples or whether it will be destroyed by an internal revolution. Eugene Lyons, whose knowledge of the subject cannot be doubted, has written a book, "Our Secret Allies," which is being widely read by our policy-makers and which sets out to tell the story of the seizure of Russia by the Bolsheviks and the inner resistance of the people to them.

Lyons belongs to the sentimental school of experts on Russia, which draws fine lines of distinction between the Kremlin and the millions over whom it rules. He almost treats the Kremlin as though it were the seat of an alien, conquering host. The Russians, while often admirable and always fascinating as individuals, have shown little capacity for freedom throughout their territory. Conquered by aliens and ruled by them for a thousand years, their society has accustomed itself to autocracy. After a few months of freedom to the point of anarchy in the Kerensky period, the Russians returned to the absolutism to which they are accustomed in a new and worse guise under Lenin and Trotzky, and after them Stalin and Malenkov. There has never been a democratic revolution, such as Western peoples have witnessed, in the whole of Russian history.

Eugene Lyons, once the United Press correspondent in Russia, then for many years the editor of "The American Mercury," is now a senior editor of "The Reader's Digest." In the late 1930's, his book "Assignment in Utopia" became a best-seller and an eye-opener for thousands of Americans hypnotized by their illusions about the "great experiment" in the USSR. His "Red Decade" is a most important contribution to the study of Communism. Therefore, when Lyons writes on Russia, he must be taken seriously even if one disagrees with his present position that the forces of revolution against the Kremlin are readying themselves inside Russia.

His thesis is that the overwhelming mass of Soviet citizens has never accepted the Red dictatorship. Despite nearly 40 years of propaganda and terror, despite the fact that a new generation has grown up, he argues that the regime has failed to win the loyalties of its subjects. What has been going on in Soviet Russia since 1917, Lyons said, is "a permanent civil war—in the first years open and military, since then largely concealed and political but even bloodier. Once you grasp this fact, much about the Soviet scene that seems baffling begins to make sense. The many millions who have perished in the struggle against the regime, whether finished off in police dungeons and slave camps and starved in man-made famine, are the casualties in that war. The great hordes of inmates of prison and concentration camps are its prisoners of war. The perennial purges, the liquidation of this or that class of the population, the abolition of entire 'republics' and 'autonomous regions' are battles in the war. And the incessant thunder of propaganda is the psychological offense that has become an essential part of modern warfare."

There are those who believe that the desire for liberty is ever existent in man and that while, for a period, he may submit to tyranny, ultimately he will strike out from freedom. Although there is evidence to support a phase of Lyons's theory, namely, that the Russian government has had to struggle to exist, there is no evidence that the opposition comes from the masses. It has been a conflict for power within the Communist Party. Nothing has yet appeared to prove that the millions of non-political persons living under a despotism will risk much for freedom. The 1917 Revolutions were not mass uprisings. The Kerensky government was the end of a palace revolution; the Bolshevik seizure of power was the effort of a small group of intellectuals. The Stalin purges were all against his associates in the party and government. Malenkov murdered Beria to get rid of a rival.

"Our Secret Allies" projects Soviet life from a novel viewpoint. Lyons has retold the history of the Soviet epoch in the struggle between the masters and the slaves.

HEART DISEASE AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

I have written before of how life insurance companies either refuse to insure overweight men and women or else charge a larger premium in proportion to their overweight. These companies have learned that lean men live longer and it is by having their policyholders live longer that these companies are able to make more money for their policyholders.

From the Cardiographic Department of Mount Sinai Hospital, New York city, we learn the following facts that should help us to keep our weight within normal limits. "Statistics compiled by insurance companies have shown conclusively that overweight alone is injurious and shortens life. In middle and later life the lowest death rates were observed in those whose weight was below average for age. There is overwhelming evidence that obese persons have a much higher death rate from heart disease than those of average or lower weight. The difference has been as high as 60 per cent for men who are 25 per cent or more overweight."

In a series of 10,000 unselected persons, 28 per cent were found to be 10 per cent or more above their ideal weight according to sex and height.

In their report on the relationship of obesity and (coronary sclerosis) heart disease, they show the investigation of the blood pressures in 74,000 men gainfully employed in 16 industrial plants and Air Force fields. This report presents information showing the limits of normal blood pressure most recently proposed by Dr. Masters and associates. This large series of cases is representative of the present general population. It will be noticed that after the age of 40 women are definitely more obese than men. The group was divided into the the following classifications: underweight (10 per cent or more), average weight, overweight (10 to 24 per cent above average) and obese (25 or more per cent above average) according to the standard weight tables. The ages of the group serving as controls ranged between 20 and 64 years of age and 90 per cent of the patients also fell between these limits. Although some of the evidence is somewhat conflicting, the following facts were found:

"Overweight is much more common among men who suffer with heart disease than in the control groups, but independent research workers found that overweight predisposes the patient to angina pectoris (pain in chest) and congestive heart failure."

Overweight has been shown to use up more oxygen in doing an equal amount of work, increases the heart rate, blood pressure, and more work is done by the heart. Overweight reduces the amount of work the individual is able to do without getting out of breath. Loss of weight is usually very beneficial to patients with heart disease.

What are the conclusions of these research workers after this investigation? "Although obesity occurs more commonly in patients with high blood pressure or heart disease, the reports in the literature and their own reports show the importance of avoiding obesity where heart disease is present."

A Persian Lesson

Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) once an economic professor himself, is a leader in calling attention to the dangers of increasing unemployment and business recession. For this he has been charged indirectly with being a "Fear Dealer."

On the Senate floor the other day he made his reply with a short history lesson. "It was the custom of Persian kings," he said, "to put to death anyone who bore unfavorable news. So gradually the messengers brought only favorable news. The result was that the Persian kings became out of touch with developments, and ultimately the Persian Empire broke up.

"I wonder if those in possession of political power today will wake up to the realities of the situation? And I wonder whether they can, with profit, learn the lesson from history?"

Justice Cleanup

Department of Justice has replaced 650 of its 1,600 attorneys and most of the new men are Republicans. With the staff thus reorganized, there are further plans afoot for "cleaning up the mess," but most of them will have to wait on passage of new legislation, to strengthen the government's powers of prosecution.

Passage of a law authorizing the use of evidence obtained by wiretapping is expected to permit prosecution of a number of new Communist cases. They are said to involve persons not previously named.

More cases involving charges of corruption on tax matters are expected to be filed soon. They will involve Bureau of Internal Revenue officials of the Truman administration, and will probably be timed to provide GOP campaign ammunition.

Fat Chance for Swap

The proposed deal to sell some of America's surplus food products to Soviet Russia isn't completely dead yet. What has been turned down is a proposal to sell some of these surpluses for money, or Russian gold. If the Russians were to offer manganese or some other strategic material which the U. S. has in short supply—in exchange for surplus butter, cheese, wheat, corn or what have we—a swap might be arranged. But so far the Russians haven't made such an offer.

All Talk, It Seems, by Army Regarding Peress Promotion Was 'Baloney'

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 5 — Well, they had five members of the Senate subcommittee instead of one on the job—as recently recommended by President Eisenhower.

They had a "code of fair procedure"—also as recommended.

The witness, Dr. Marvin Sanford Belsky, now in the army, was represented by counsel—also as recommended.

There was no "brow beating" of anybody. And yet the facts turned up at the Thursday hearing of the committee of which Senator McCarthy is chairman are these:

1. Dr. Belsky, an alleged Communist, refused to answer the army's questions about whether or not he was a Communist.

2. Dr. Belsky declined to tell the committee whether he aided the Communists in any way while in the army.

3. Dr. Belsky was not granted a promotion, though he applied for a commission, and he was never given any official reason for that refusal.

So it turns out that all the talk about how hard it was for the army to keep Dr. Irving Peress, dentist, known to the army as a Communist, from being promoted from captain to major or from being denied an honorable discharge was a lot of baloney.

Yet it didn't take the testimony of Dr. Belsky alone to prove that point. Charles E. Wilson, secretary of defense, came back to town and opened up with a free-swinging press conference that disclosed these unpleasant points:

1. That the army could have found a way to prevent Major Peress from getting a commission and that a court-martial could have been ordered.

2. That he ordered the 21 Americans who refused repatriation in Korea to be court-martialed when army lawyers were debating whether he could order a court-martial.

3. That, while legislation to keep Communists from getting honorable discharges or commissions would be helpful, the secretary of defense doesn't need it. He said: "I know how to get the Communists out of the army without legislation if I have to."

Then Mr. Wilson said that, while Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens was technically responsible, he knew Mr. Stevens had done the best he could with a "tough situation." As for the handling of witnesses, Mr. Wilson didn't think they should have to face "any such situation," namely vigorous cross-questioning by congressional committees. What may be inferred, of course, is that the army should be able to put officers on the witness stand who knew the score in such cases and thus avoid embarrassment for commanding officers who merely carry out orders that the legal branch of the army gives them.

In all this, the position of Mr. Stevens, secretary of the army, is deserving of real sympathy. He was out of the country while most of the row about Dr. Peress was going on. And, when he came back, he stated frankly that whatever errors had been made would be corrected and that certainly a way should be found to rid the army of Communists and keep any of them from getting honorable discharges. But he had not read the Zwicker testimony when he made his later comments about witnesses not being represented by counsel. He had not read what General Zwicker had said that exasperated Senator McCarthy. He didn't know that the army had not sent counsel to the hearings.

The whole episode is replete with the agressiveness of an interested press. Reporters ran back and forth from one controversialist to the other, paraphrasing comments in the haste of news gathering. The latest example was on Thursday when Secretary Wilson's comments were carried back to Senator McCarthy, who, without being advised of the entire statement by Mr. Wilson, impulsively let out a blast against what he thought was an unfriendly criticism by Mr. Wilson.

One wonders how much the country would be spared the kind of cat-and-dog-fight atmosphere it is reading about in the press if each of the principals would take time enough to read the official stenographic record of these hearings and the full texts of statements and then issue calm and deliberate statements rather than resort to off-the-cuff comments. Speed in gathering news can in this instance bring a disservice to all concerned, though the press is not to blame if public officials cannot restrain their comments and instead blurt out answers to questions that had best be deferred till they have all the facts.

So far as the politics of it all is concerned, it is to be noted that the Stevenson-Truman supporters in Congress and elsewhere have been active in fomenting for some time the idea of a break between the President and Senator McCarthy. Just why the President must be held responsible for the public statements of all Republicans is a mystery that can be explained only by the knowledge that the White House amateur's don't know how to deal with the professional trouble-makers who egg them on to get the President to denounce the Wisconsin senator repeatedly. One way to take the sting out of the Communist issue which is bothering the Democrats so much is to try to discredit the man who has dramatically exposed laxity in handling Communists in government.

What the Republicans who know their politics realize, of course, is that McCarthy the man may be disliked by his critics and enemies, but the issue which he raises is bigger than any man. To alienate Senator McCarthy is not difficult for the White House to do but to alienate some 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 voters who, according to recent public-opinion pools, agree with his views is to court political disaster. Many Republicans can do as they have done in the past—stay away from the polls. To the zealous followers of a leader on an emotional issue, there is no length to which an internal party squabble cannot be carried. The lesson of the third party and the 1912 Republican split surely has not been forgotten.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, March 4—On the topic of Senator McCarthy's row with the army administration under Secretary Stevens, I suggest, on the basis of background knowledge, that Stevens will gradually and painfully learn that he has been trying to defend a mess. Having committed himself, he is stuck as patron of conditions similar to those which the Roosevelt-Truman regime allowed to develop in State and other departments.

The army tradition is noble, but there is no sense in an arbitrary attitude after the disclosures of treachery almost everywhere else. Naturally the enemy would go to the army. And to the navy, too. As for the Marine Corps, they had their Red brigadier in the Pacific, and a good field soldier, too, though no better than most. He died of natural causes and he may have been the only Red in the corps but that seems doubtful in the face of the averages.

President Eisenhower looks more like U. S. Grant every day and he will be lucky if he doesn't wind up with scandals as bad as those which established for Grant the worst reputation as a President down to the time of F. D. Roosevelt. I am not smirking when I say let us pray that Eisenhower is not as dumb as he seems. I hope he makes a good President, not for his own sake primarily, but for ours.

In passing, however, wouldn't you agree that Ike is taking more than a reasonable amount of time off to play golf and relax? Wouldn't you criticize him for lending the prestige of the office which really is our own national treasure, not his personal property, to political pressure groups more often identified with the New Deal than with the Republican party? And for otherwise loafing on a job that calls for long hours of hard work as he certainly had been warned by Harry Truman's belly-aching about his terrible ordeal? I don't want a President to kill himself, but I notice that Truman, after all his yowling, recently boasted that he had never taken a sleeping pill or missed a wink in many years. At the age of 70, he can lead a straggling pack of younger men from the New York papers a mile up Park and down Lexington, so the job didn't take took much out of him. Anyway, you don't live forever and Ike asked for this job knowing that it was supposed to call for some anxiety, long hours and concentration. Incidentally, it never did follow that the rigors of the job killed Roosevelt. The same thing happens every day to people who are just going along.

This President of ours, being an old army man, is supposed to know more about the army as an institution than most of us. But he doesn't and he is going to wake up and discover that even the army has been infected all the way up to West Point, with the same doubts and queasy casuistry that rotted out the integrity of state, agriculture, justice and the treasury.

If Truman and Henry Morgenthau couldn't spot Harry Dexter White or couldn't believe the truth when it was told to them, how much better equipped is Ike when the same sort of reports come in about the army? Has Stevens any qualifications to judge such things? They had two major-generals in the war who have been seriously impugned in congressional disclosures since. One of them, a Roosevelt housepet, so well pleased Soviet Russia and the Communists in this country that to this day the Red papers mention him only in affectionate praise.

The other was tacitly accused of causing or concealing the truth about the disappearance of the report on the Katyn massacre in which almost the entire officer corps of the Polish army was destroyed by the Russians. There is not enough evidence to justify accusations of "communism" against such men. But the record is such that the department of the army certainly ought to do some detective work and cooperate with Congress instead of rearing back with snorts about the abuse of a brigadier.

The so-called cadet forum of the military academy ran an interesting show the night before the corps entrained for the Army-Navy game. They had Telford Taylor up to make a talk about congressional inquiries which wound up in the conventional blast of the New York Times, the Herald Tribune, the Roosevelt cult and, of course, all Reds and fellow-travelers, against Joe McCarthy. Taylor spoke especially on the Fort Monmouth situation. There was serious guilt at Monmouth but the Times, a Roosevelt, New Deal propaganda sheet from way back in '33, did a whitewash, more for the purpose, it seemed to me, of discrediting McCarthy than of getting at the guilt.

I have already sketched Taylor's career and revealed his association in the law business. One partner is Randolph Paull, who was the chief law officer of the treasury when Harry Dexter White was at the height of his power. Another is Simon Rifkin, an old secretary to Robert F. Wagner, the "author" of the original Labor Relations Act, and later a federal judge. As such, Rifkin let a man walk out of court absolutely free after he had pleaded guilty of sending

Flower Show Is Annual Attraction For Area Residents

Local interest is, as usual, keen about the opening of the International Flower Show to be opened for one week, March 7-13, at Kingsbridge Armory, the Bronx.

Special bus trips have been advertised from city and county points for the event, which annually draws many hundreds from the central Hudson region.

The Garden Club of America and the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State announced plans for the creation of two of the most ambitious displays ever staged at the International Flower Show.

Both groups are major exhibitors at the show, which will be held in Kingsbridge Armory, March 7-13.

The Garden Club of America will present a special display "Our Garden Heritage," which will incorporate six individual gardens, each reflecting a particular era in the nation's history.

The first garden will portray the Pre-Colonial Era and will feature native plant material found on the arrival of the early settlers, including a section of an Indian stockade. The second will be the reproduction of a house and garden of the first settlers, with plants of the type imported by the colonists about the year 1640.

Typical of 1730

Another portion of the exhibit will consist of a Salt Box House with a walled garden, typical of the Northeastern homes of 1730. This will be followed by a Capain's House, typical of the homes and gardens of commercial mariners, in the year 1810. The fifth garden will be constructed around a Victorian Summer House of 1880 and the last garden in the series will be a modern terrace with glass brick wall.

Colonial Life in Bronksland—better known today as the Bronx and site of the International Flower Show—will be the theme around which the Federated Garden Clubs of New York state will center its activity.

The Federated exhibit will include a faithful reproduction of a Bronx farmhouse, typical of those constructed in the late 1600s. The house will be built under the direction of Mrs. C. Turner Richardson, Douglaston.

Morris Manor House

On a more elaborate scale, club members will reproduce the interior of the Robert Morris manor house, typical of the more fashionable homes of the mid-1700s. The Morris manor will be built under the direction of Mrs. Jeremiah Clarke and Mrs. Warren Brewster, both of Glen Head.

The show opens Sunday at 2 p. m. It will run daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. through Saturday, March 13. Kingsbridge Armory is located at Kingsbridge road and Jerome avenue, the Bronx.

The articles were made under the direction of Mrs. Leila Hardie, rehabilitation counselor. Included in the exhibit are an antique chair that was completely refinished and caned, a tooled leather coin purse, etched copper ash tray, reed basket, woven pot holders, decorative Chenille doll, shell earrings and a painted wooden sewing stand.

BLS Reports on Strikes

Washington, March 5 (AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today the number of strikes in January dropped to 4,000, a four-year low. These strikes involved 150,000 workers and caused about one million man-days of idleness. This compared with 500 strikes involving 250,000 workers and causing 1,250,000 man-days idleness in January 1953. A man-day is the time of one man for one day.

Memo to Mr. Vishinsky:

So we hear that you have a stockpile of atom bombs? So have we! That about makes our respective powers of destruction equal. We should be equal in CONSTRUCTIVE FORCES.

Mr. Hutton

We, Americans, were once under British rule. We threw off those chains and became free; then a CONSTITUTION and its BILL OF RIGHTS were given to our people.

Tyranny was displaced by forces of LIBERTY. That is the only force that God smiles upon.

In place of bombs to be dropped upon your people, we give you our CONSTITUTION and its BILL OF RIGHTS. Take it, and drop that great charter of FREEDOM upon your people. That's what we'd like to see happen.

I'd also suggest that you abandon your idea of making the U.S.A. a "captive" country. Particularly, I advise you: Keep out of the State of Texas. Tell that to Mr. Maenkov. He may like some of these ideas.

100,000 Elderly To Move South or West, Is Estimate

Albany, March 5 (AP)—More than 100,000 elderly New Yorkers will move south or to the Pacific coast in the next 10 years, Sen. Thomas C. Desmond said today.

Desmond, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Problems of the Aging, said that during the last 10 years 55,900 New York state aged, "more than double the number for the preceding decade," had moved to Florida or Southern California.

"That trend is expected to continue," the Newburgh Republican said in a written statement, "meaning a permanent loss to our state during the next 10 years of more than 100,000 elderly."

New York has replaced Pennsylvania as the state sending the largest number of elderly to warmer climes, Desmond said.

Families are becoming smaller and oldsters are no longer tied down by their children's needs, Desmond said. The rapid spread of pension plans also give the aged more security and freedom to travel, he added.

Poison Is Something Else Again

An old friend of mine, Henri Bernstein, the French playwright, died in Paris a few weeks ago.

The last time I saw Henri was in the spring of 1950, when we lunched in his apartment over the Theatre des Ambassadeurs which had been confiscated by the Germans and restored to him by General de Gaulle in recognition of his services to the Free French.

Bernstein, though he was pushing 70 at the time, was what the phrasemakers call "a fine figure of a man." Better than six feet tall, he was still sharp of eye, taut of tummy and as full of schemes as a Mississippi riverboat gambler. . . .

Over the cognac, I steered the conversation around to the subject of dueling—a field in which Henri had won even more kudos than he had in the theatre. If rumor was to be believed, the playwright had fought more than 50 duels with drama critics who liked his plays too little and husbands who liked their wives too much.

"When you challenged a man to a duel," I said, "weren't you afraid you might get killed?"

"Seldom," said Henri. "In almost every case, I was the bigger man and the better swordsman."

"I see," I said. "You picked your opponents carefully."

"Let me put it this way," said Bernstein. "A duel these days is hardly more dangerous than a minuet. One's honor is satisfied and everybody shakes hands if a swordsman as much as pinks his opponent. Actually, the only courageous duelist I have ever heard of was a small man named Rudolf Virchow. And he never fought a duel. . . ."

As Henri told it, Rudolf Virchow was one of Germany's most distinguished citizens in the 1860's. In addition to heading up Berlin's Pathological Institute and designing the city's drainage system, he was personally popular and, without seeking the honor, had been elected to the Reichstag. There, as might be expected, the humane little man found quick disfavor with Prince Bismark, the big blood-and-guts Chancellor who was dreaming the perennial German dream of taking over the world.

Matters came to a head one afternoon when Virchow made a speech in which he complained that too large a percentage of Germany's income was being spent on guns and far too little on public improvements.

The irritated Bismark rose to answer. Such namby-pambys as Virchow, he fumed, only diverted the Reichstag from its rightful business—conquest.

One word led to a thousand others and, when the warrior found he was no match for his antagonist with words, he challenged him to a duel.

When Virchow calmly accepted, his friends became panicky. Bismark was a giant of a man, and one of the best swordsmen in Germany . . .

Next day the Chancellor's heel-clicking seconds called on Virchow to give him his choice of weapons. The scientist greeted them with (a) a smile, and (b) a plate on which there were two frankfurters.

"These are the weapons," he informed the seconds. "They are identical, except that one frankfurter contains a lethal amount of strychnine. Please present the plate to Prince Bismark and let him eat the one he chooses. I, of course, will eat the other."

Half an hour later, the seconds were back with Bismark's answer.

"His Highness begs to inform Herr Virchow that he is not partial to frankfurters, and asks him to share a platter of hassenpfeffer with him at dinner tomorrow evening. He feels, after due consideration, that there was considerable merit in his opponent's speech before the Reichstag, and is certain a middle ground can be reached . . ."

"Had you been in Bismark's place," I asked Henri Bernstein, "what would you have done?"

"Without the advantages of size and skill," said my friend, "I would have done precisely what the Chancellor did. Except that, as a French gentleman, I wouldn't have offered a courageous opponent anything so barbaric as hassenpfeffer."

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Florida, March 4 —Some weeks ago I wrote a column on the relation of Business to Mental Health. I now wish to write on Physical Health. Of course, people must have employment and wages in order to buy, but they must also be free from worry in order to do good work and get promoted. This is so self-evident that it needs no discussion; but I want to write now of something much deeper.

I have not been feeling well for three weeks. Although I was not confined to my bed, yet something caused severe pains in my back and legs. I just could not do any constructive work and I began to worry, which I never do when feeling well. I, therefore, am now in Florida for a few weeks. This column, however, is not an advertisement for Florida, although I am very fond of its climate!

My purpose rather is to say that being independent financially and free to come and go, I am not dependent upon any job or salary. If, however, I were, and obliged to go to an office each day, I would not have given my company "value received" for my salary. Worse than that, I probably would have made mistakes in judgment which would have caused the company financial loss.

Health of Your Associates

Yet, there must be hundreds of important executives and thousands of foremen and tens of thousands of workmen, salesmen, and clerks who are dragging themselves to work when they ought to be home in bed. They do this partly not to lose their pay; or—if they are executives—not to have the word get around that they are not well. As the prosperity of every business depends largely on the decisions made by executives, foremen, and others, such "half-sick" men or women can cause their companies much loss.

When you consider that thousands of companies are suffering losses for this reason, it shows how poor health and worry must affect the entire business of the country. If you are unemployed, it may be due to your health or to your boss's health. In other words, if he were "up to snuff," the company might not have needed to lay you and others off. So much for that. Now some statistics on the direct cash cost of illness and accidents.

Illnesses and Accidents

The Health Information Foundation reports that during the past full year 22,000,000 families of these United States as individuals paid out over $10,000,000,000 for medical and dental costs. Furthermore, this was in addition to what the federal government and the states expended. Of the above $10 billion, $2 billion went to hospitals, nearly $5½ billion to doctors and dentists, $1½ billion for medicines, and over $1 billion for other practitioners, nurses, etc.

Most of the people treated got well, although they lost both time and money. But a good part of this expense was absolutely thrown away—for there were nearly 100,000 deaths, largely from automobile accidents. In addition, millions of others were injured by accidents, such as traffic accidents—1,350,000; drownings—6,800; home falls—20,000; industrial accidents—15,000; burns—6,400; firearms—2,500; etc., etc. These figures are supplied by the National Safety Council. I wonder how many readers of this column will be included in the 1954 figures!

Let Us Look to the Future

The politicians and welfare experts are constantly raising the legal age at which young people can go to work. Now they say that all should have a college education. At the same time, industry is retiring more people between 60 and 65 years of age. Today the number of people over 65 years is one in twelve; in 25 years it will be one in nine. But where is the money coming from to give the young people 22 years for education and play, and the old people pensions?

The truth is that somehow (through more taxes or higher prices), these millions of young and old must be supported by those between 22 and 60-65 years of age. The latter must also supply the $10 billion mentioned above. This makes the cost of sickness, youth, and old age far more important than the cost of coffee!

CONSTIPATED?

Read how Walter A. Reynolds of Shamokin, Pa., solved his troubles!

"Most of the laxatives I tried in the past were either too harsh or too slow! Then I discovered gentle, speedy Sal Hepatica . . . and now I feel like a new person! It's the best relief I've ever had from constipation.

"Now, if I wake up with that headachy, logy feeling due to constipation, I take Sal Hepatica before breakfast, and get speedy, gentle relief—usually within an hour!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again . . . usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Now some statistics on the direct cash cost of illness and accidents.

Illnesses and Accidents

The Health Information Foundation reports that during the past full year 22,000,000 families of these United States as individuals paid out over $10,000,000,000 for medical and dental costs. Furthermore, this was in addition to what the federal government and the states expended. Of the above $10 billion, $2 billion went to hospitals, nearly $5½ billion to doctors and dentists, $1½ billion for medicines, and over $1 billion for other practitioners, nurses, etc.

Most of the people treated got well, although they lost both time and money. But a good part of this expense was absolutely thrown away—for there were nearly 100,000 deaths, largely from automobile accidents. In addition, millions of others were injured by accidents, such as traffic accidents—1,350,000; drownings—6,800; home falls—20,000; industrial accidents—15,000; burns—6,400; firearms—2,500; etc., etc. These figures are supplied by the National Safety Council. I wonder how many readers of this column will be included in the 1954 figures!

Let Us Look to the Future

The politicians and welfare experts are constantly raising the legal age at which young people can go to work. Now they say that all should have a college education. At the same time, industry is retiring more people between 60 and 65 years of age. Today the number of people over 65 years is one in twelve; in 25 years it will be one in nine. But where is the money coming from to give the young people 22 years for education and play, and the old people pensions?

The truth is that somehow (through more taxes or higher prices), these millions of young and old must be supported by those between 22 and 60-65 years of age. The latter must also supply the $10 billion mentioned above. This makes the cost of sickness, youth, and old age far more important than the cost of coffee!

CONSTIPATED?

Read how Walter A. Reynolds of Shamokin, Pa., solved his troubles!

"Most of the laxatives I tried in the past were either too harsh or too slow! Then I discovered gentle, speedy Sal Hepatica . . . and now I feel like a new person! It's the best relief I've ever had from constipation.

"Now, if I wake up with that headachy, logy feeling due to constipation, I take Sal Hepatica before breakfast, and get speedy, gentle relief—usually within an hour!"

Yes, take sparkling Sal Hepatica before breakfast and feel fine again . . . usually within an hour. Or, take it in the evening one-half hour before supper and feel fine again by bedtime! Sweetens sour stomach, too! So keep Sal Hepatica handy in your medicine chest.

Handsome New Buildings Line Broadway

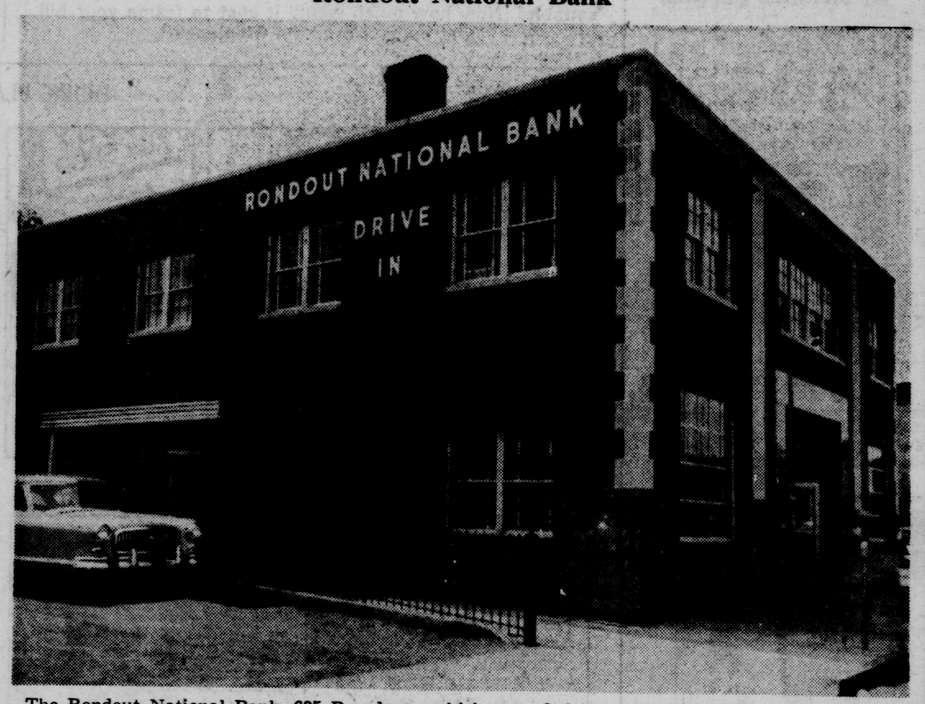
Rondout National Bank



The Rondout National Bank, 635 Broadway, which moved from East Strand last year after 105 years in the downtown section of the city. This move, influenced by the development of central Kingston, is vivid example of recent progress in the central section of the city. The new quarters were completely reconstructed. (Freeman photo)

Central Broadway Business Cites Thoroughfare Traffic

(The development of central Kingston was greatly stimulated by construction of the Broadway underpass, principal improvement in the general brightening of the area. This is the second in a series of four articles treating recent growth and change in the central section.)

By JOHN A CRAWFORD, JR.

A far-sighted project in the current development of the central Kingston area was the elimination of the atrocious Broadway crossing during the last administration and construction of the modern underpass beneath which traffic moves smoothly in steady flow—uninterrupted by railroad gates and grinding freight, congesting the street and seriously frustrating the hapless and often apoplectic motorist.

Heiselman Had Plan

When the question of the Broadway crossing arose during the administration of Conrad J. Heiselman some years ago Heiselman recommended to property owners that they get together and formulate a common architectural plan of reconstruction for the area, pointing out that it could be made into an outstanding shopping district.

The city engineer even drew up a plan showing how the earthen embankments on each side of the underpass could be cut back and retaining walls built. Heiselman envisaged something "distinctive" as a shopping district, a kind of "arcade" in the underpass area which would attract attention architecturally. No concerted action by property owners resulted, however.

According to Irving L. Eyles, executive vice president of the Rondout National Bank and president of the Central Businessmen's Association 64-foot-wide Broadway, with its two north-bound and two south-bound traffic lanes —parking on both sides of the street—permits an easy flow of traffic. Once the thruway is completed, he points out, the traffic flow should be even better.

Parking in the central section of the city is the best in the city according to mid-city thinking.

Area Is Brightened

Characteristic of the new spirit in the central Broadway area is the general "brightening" of the street with new construction and renovation. Many of the buildings, which formerly "drabbed" the city's main artery have received face-lifting operations — bright, modern new store fronts. An unmistakable new attitude and vitality is apparent.

Illustrative of the transformation is the relocation of bank branches and financial institutions in the section—a reliable index of business optimism.

The Kingston Trust Company has reconstructed its Central Branch along the most modern banking lines, including a drive-in and walk-up for the benefit of depositors. The same service also is supplied by the new Rondout National Bank, 635 Broadway, which moved up from the downtown section where it had been located for 105 years. The move was not made "without careful consideration" dictated by the development of central Kingston. The new quarters were completely reconstructed.

The Homeseekers Savings and Loan Association, with its main office in the downtown section, recently established a branch office at 628 Broadway.

Harbingers of Optimism

This financial development in the central section is supported by similar extensions throughout Ulster county and the Mid-Hudson area—all harbingers of optimism.

Among signs of the times is the erection by Radio Station WKNY of a television tower south of Kingston—to be completed this spring.

The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation's capital investment has doubled in the past 10 years, as Freeman reporter, John Warren, pointed out in a recent series in The Freeman. Approximately 1,800 to 2,000 persons visit the office at 607 Broadway each month to pay utility bills.

Warren points out that Central Hudson's new 66,000 kilowatt steam generating plant at Danskammer Point, rated sixth most efficient in the United States, would not have been built unless the area demand for power warranted such expansion. Now under construction is a second unit that will double the output of the Danskammer plant. It is scheduled for completion late this summer.

Telephones Double

The New York Telephone Company, 14 Henry street, has twice as many telephones installed in the Kingston district as were in use in 1945. According to Leonard W. Herrick, manager of the Kingston office, there are now 16,237 telephones installed in the city of Kingston. In addition the Kingston district has 8,460 telephones installed in surrounding areas as follows: Esopus, 209; Fleischmanns, 443; High Falls, 869; Phoenicia, 751; Pine Hill, 270; Rosendale, 795; Saugerties, 2,835; Shokan, 615; Ulster Park, 139, and Woodstock, 1,534.

Herrick points out that about six or seven thousand persons come into the office each month to pay their bills—about 350 each day.

The IBM plant would mean a heavy increase in telephone service, Herrick explains. Any residential development in the northern environs, such as the proposed 600-home housing project in the Mt. Marion area, would also increase the load of the district office. Upstate toll usage and new telephone demand has dropped off considerably, according to Herrick—"but this is not true of the Kingston area."

10 Ulster Women AtDemocratParley

This country is steadily assuming "an atmosphere of suspicion and hate," Averell Harriman told the Democratic Women's Legislative Conference in Albany, March 1.

Five Kingston women were among the 10 from Ulster county who attended the conference.

"The senator from Wisconsin is the greatest asset to world communism," Harriman said, quoting Ralph McGill, Atlanta newspaper editor.

Harriman said he believed that confidence in ourselves and the American people is one of the most effective weapons in our fight against communism.

Miss Angela Parisi and Richard Balch, vice-chairman and chairman of the Democratic State Committee and Eugene Bannigan and Francis J. Mahoney, minority leaders of the state assembly and senate, also spoke during the luncheon program.

Panel discussions concerning significant trends and Democratic women's political activities comprised the afternoon program.

Representing this area, Mrs. Harriet Allen Kerr of New Paltz helped to detail the different kinds of political work done by women throughout the state.

Mrs. Kerr emphasized the value of the day of political education planned by Ulster county Democratic women for May 15, in Kingston.

Handsome New Buildings Line Broadway

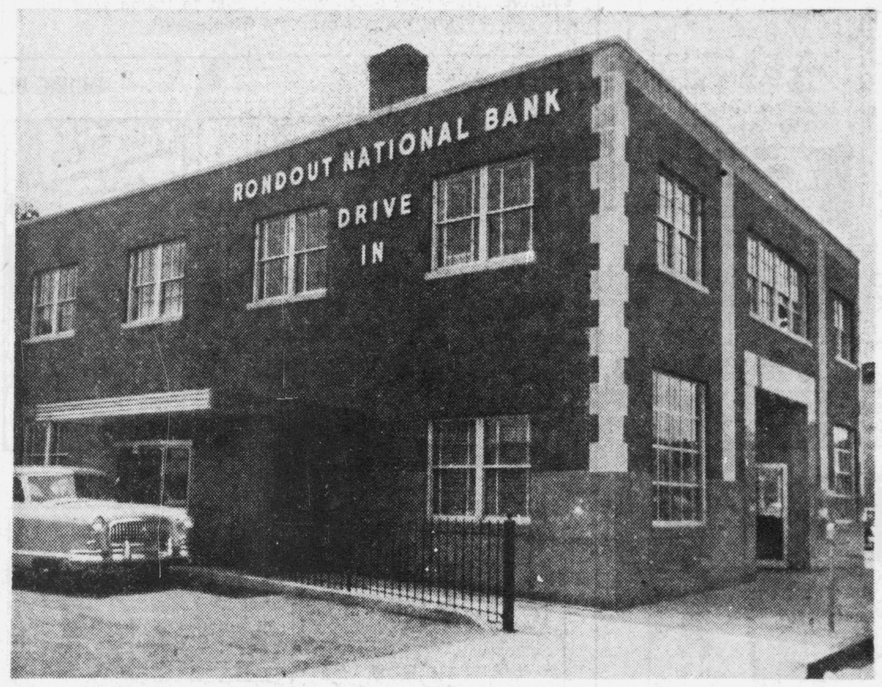
Rondout National Bank



The Rondout National Bank, 635 Broadway, which moved from East Strand last year after 105 years in the downtown section of the city. This move, influenced by the development of central Kingston, is vivid example of recent progress in the central section of the city. The new quarters were completely reconstructed. (Freeman photo)

Central Broadway Business Cites Thoroughfare Traffic

(The development of central Kingston was greatly stimulated by construction of the Broadway underpass, principal improvement in the general brightening of the area. This is the second in a series of four articles treating recent growth and change in the central section.)

By JOHN A CRAWFORD, JR.

A far-sighted project in the current development of the central Kingston area was the elimination of the atrocious Broadway crossing during the last administration and construction of the modern underpass beneath which traffic moves smoothly in steady flow—uninterrupted by railroad gates and grinding freight, congesting the street and seriously frustrating the hapless and often apoplectic motorist.

Heiselman Had Plan

When the question of the Broadway crossing arose during the administration of Conrad J. Heiselman some years ago Heiselman recommended to property owners that they get together and formulate a common architectural plan of reconstruction for the area, pointing out that it could be made into an outstanding shopping district.

The city engineer even drew up a plan showing how the earthen embankments on each side of the underpass could be cut back and retaining walls built. Heiselman envisaged something "distinctive" as a shopping district, a kind of "arcade" in the underpass area which would attract attention architecturally. No concerted action by property owners resulted, however.

According to Irving L. Eyles, executive vice president of the Rondout National Bank and president of the Central Businessmen's Association 64-foot-wide Broadway, with its two north-bound and two south-bound traffic lanes —parking on both sides of the street—permits an easy flow of traffic. Once the thruway is completed, he points out, the traffic flow should be even better.

Parking in the central section of the city is the best in the city according to mid-city thinking.

Area Is Brightened

Characteristic of the new spirit in the central Broadway area is the general "brightening" of the street with new construction and renovation. Many of the buildings, which formerly "drabbed" the city's main artery have received face-lifting operations — bright, modern new store fronts. An unmistakable new attitude and vitality is apparent.

Illustrative of the transformation is the relocation of bank branches and financial institutions in the section—a reliable index of business optimism.

The Kingston Trust Company has reconstructed its Central Branch along the most modern banking lines, including a drive-in and walk-up for the benefit of depositors. The same service also is supplied by the new Rondout National Bank, 635 Broadway, which moved up from the downtown section where it had been located for 105 years. The move was not made "without careful consideration" dictated by the development of central Kingston. The new quarters were completely reconstructed.

The Homeseekers Savings and Loan Association, with its main office in the downtown section, recently established a branch office at 628 Broadway.

Harbingers of Optimism

This financial development in the central section is supported by similar extensions throughout Ulster county and the Mid-Hudson area—all harbingers of optimism.

Among signs of the times is the erection by Radio Station WKNY of a television tower south of Kingston—to be completed this spring.

The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation's capital investment has doubled in the past 10 years, as Freeman reporter, John Warren, pointed out in a recent series in The Freeman. Approximately 1,800 to 2,000 persons visit the office at 607 Broadway each month to pay utility bills.

Warren points out that Central Hudson's new 66,000 kilowatt steam generating plant at Danskammer Point, rated sixth most efficient in the United States, would not have been built unless the area demand for power warranted such expansion. Now under construction is a second unit that will double the output of the Danskammer plant. It is scheduled for completion late this summer.

Telephones Double

The New York Telephone Company, 14 Henry street, has twice as many telephones installed in the Kingston district as were in use in 1945. According to Leonard W. Herrick, manager of the Kingston office, there are now 16,237 telephones installed in the city of Kingston. In addition the Kingston district has 8,460 telephones installed in surrounding areas as follows: Esopus, 209; Fleischmanns, 443; High Falls, 869; Phoenicia, 751; Pine Hill, 270; Rosendale, 795; Saugerties, 2,835; Shokan, 615; Ulster Park, 139, and Woodstock, 1,534.

Herrick points out that about six or seven thousand persons come into the office each month to pay their bills—about 350 each day.

The IBM plant would mean a heavy increase in telephone service, Herrick explains. Any residential development in the northern environs, such as the proposed 600-home housing project in the Mt. Marion area, would also increase the load of the district office. Upstate toll usage and new telephone demand has dropped off considerably, according to Herrick—"but this is not true of the Kingston area."

10 Ulster Women AtDemocratParley

This country is steadily assuming "an atmosphere of suspicion and hate," Averell Harriman told the Democratic Women's Legislative Conference in Albany, March 1.

Five Kingston women were among the 10 from Ulster county who attended the conference.

"The senator from Wisconsin is the greatest asset to world communism," Harriman said, quoting Ralph McGill, Atlanta newspaper editor.

Harriman said he believed that confidence in ourselves and the American people is one of the most effective weapons in our fight against communism.

Miss Angela Parisi and Richard Balch, vice-chairman and chairman of the Democratic State Committee and Eugene Bannigan and Francis J. Mahoney, minority leaders of the state assembly and senate, also spoke during the luncheon program.

Sailors Get Legal Aid

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Sailors in legal trouble take their woes to University of Oklahoma law students. Most problems, say Naval Air Technical Training Center officers here, are settled on the spot. The toughies are referred to the county bar. "One of the best and most unusual legal aid programs in the United States," comments Junius L. Allison, Chicago, field director for the American Bar Assn.'s legal aid committee.

Worry

Worry has manufactured more caskets and erected more marble slabs in the cemetery than all the skilled workers in this vicinity.

Worry has killed more of the race than the white plague and cancer combined.

When worry moves in to live with you, happiness and contentment leave without giving notice.

Worry has never purchased a meal or paid a debt.

So . . . Why worry?

Every normal man has two ambitions: One to own a home and the other to own a car to get away from home.

Confidence — The feeling you have before you know better.

He—Do you enjoy my company?

She—What company are you with?

Kurtzie: "I opened my eyes and felt for my watch—It was gone. I felt for my pants—they were gone. I felt for my shoes—they, too, were gone. No wonder—I was in bed."

Vacation: Two weeks on the sand—and 50 to the rocks.

Oriole—I hate to watch football.

Beulah—Why?

Oriole — Because every time those men go into a huddle I go crazy trying to figure out a way to get in there with them.

A college education never hurt anyone willing to learn something afterwards.

When an expert doubles a slam that has been bid voluntarily, he is trying to steer his partner to the "killing" opening lead. For many years I followed the convention that such a double asks for a lead in the first suit bid by the dummy, but in the last few years I have swung over to the view that the double should merely ask for an unusual lead.

The difference can be enormous, as may be seen in today's hand, taken from my brand-new book, "What's New in Bridge."

If you are West, you must pick the right opening lead to defeat this slam. The double warns you not to lead hearts, your partner's bid suit. Since a trump lead is out of the question (it is almost always the worst possible lead against a slam), you must choose between diamonds and clubs.

Your partner cannot be void of clubs, because he merely overcalled with one heart; if he had been really short in clubs, he probably would have made a takeout double of one club. If your partner has club tricks, it is extremely unlikely that he needs an immediate club lead to make sure of those tricks. Hence you have every reason to believe that your partner's double calls for a diamond lead.

If you come to this correct conclusion, a diamond lead will permit your partner to take the first two tricks. If you lead anything else, declarer will easily take 13 tricks with six spades, six clubs, and the ace of hearts.

You might quite reasonably quarrel with North's jump raise to three spades. I agree with you that this is a slight overbid. Nevertheless, South will make this slam unless the defense is on its toes.

Dog Is Host

Whitefish, Mont. (AP) — The stranger, caught in a sub-zero snowstorm, looked desperately for a place to stay. He saw a roadhouse and knocked on the door but could arouse no one. Then he saw an immense dog house. He crawled in and spent the night cuddled next to a giant St. Bernard. The next morning George Robinson was startled to see a man climb out of his dog's house. Ordinarily the dog—Peter Pan—wouldn't allow anyone but the family near his house. The stranger thanked the Robinsons—and Peter Pan—for their "warm hospitality" and walked on down the highway.

The thermometer was invented by Galileo, an Italian, in 1593.

WILLIAM S. CARLSON

President William S. Carlson of the State University of New York will be the principal speaker on Saturday, March 13, at the cornerstone laying ceremony for the new Library Building at the State University Teachers College at New Paltz. In announcing plans for the ceremony, Dr. William J. Haggerty, president of the college, indicated that President Carlson will make a major address on "academic freedom" as part of the ceremony. President Carlson will also participate with members of the college's Board of Visitors and college officials in the actual ceremony of laying the cornerstone for the new library.

President Carlson's visit to New Paltz and his address will be closely related to several events scheduled at the college in connection with the world-wide discussion of the theme of Columbia University's Bi-Centennial, "Man's Right to Knowledge and the Free Use Thereof." Another event connected with this theme is an assembly on March 16 in which three students and three faculty members will discuss the student's right to utilize freely the world's intellectual attainments.

On the evening of March 17, Professor Goodwin Watson of Teachers College, Columbia University, will participate in a symposium on the importance of the free use of knowledge. The symposium will be sponsored by the New Paltz Chapter of the American Association of University Professors. Participating in the symposium will be faculty members from the College, from the Campus Elementary School of the College, and from the New Paltz Central High School.

The cornerstone laying ceremony for the Library Building also falls on Alumni Homecoming Day, which will bring many alumni back to the campus. In addition to the cornerstone laying ceremony, the alumni, along with members of the student body and the faculty, will attend a reception for President Carlson in the College Union Building immediately after the cornerstone laying ceremony. Following the reception the alumni will have a buffet supper with the student body in the main dining room of the Union Building and will then watch the traditional alumni-college basketball game. An evening of entertainment, "Alumni Antics," will be provided in the various activity rooms of the Union Building.

As a part of the cornerstone laying ceremony for the new Library Building, several documents, records, reports, and photographs, will be placed in a copper box which will be sealed inside the cornerstone.

Ground was broken for the new Library, in the spring of 1952, by Governor Dewey and President Carlson at the time of the dedication of the new Residence Halls and College Union Building. The Library building was designed by the architect's firm of Reiley and Thorn of New York city. The building will contain a large area of library stacks, two large reading rooms, offices and work rooms for the library staff, various study and seminar rooms, and exhibition space. It is expected that the new building will be in operation by the time college opens next September. President Carlson will arrive at New Paltz on Friday, the day before the cornerstone laying ceremony, and will meet with various student and faculty groups to discuss problems and plans of the State University and particularly plans for the State University Teachers College at New Paltz, which is one of the twenty-seven higher institutions now comprising the State University of New York.

Woman From Kingston 'Tapped' by Lafayette Baton in Newburgh

MRS. FREDERICK E. HYDE, Jr.

Mrs. Frederick E. Hyde, Jr. of this city, was one of three persons "tapped" by the Lafayette Baton in ceremonies held Tuesday, Feb. 23, at the Palatine Hotel, Newburgh. This event was sponsored by the Newburgh Rotary and Lions Clubs. Mrs. Hyde was given this distinction because of her exceptional work with the Navajo Indians of the southwest.

Dr. Arthur Hastings Merrit of New York city, former president of the American Dental Society, was the guest speaker at the ceremonies at Washington's Headquarters. He is the first man to be honored by being "tapped:" Dr. Adeline M. Westcott of Newburgh was the third person to be cited, for her work as a pioneer in diabetic treatment. Those honored were among the first of many to be "tapped" as the Lafayette Baton travels across the country honoring distinguished Americans for "creative citizenship."

Snyder Originated Idea

Frederic Snyder, 34 Lucas avenue, a Rotarian and member of the Sons of the American Revolution, was master of ceremonies at the gathering. He is the originator of the idea and chairman of the committee arranging the tour of the baton. In charge of the program were Dr. Carlos Fallon and William L. Browning of Newburgh.

This Lafayette baton, originated in Newburgh, topped the first persons in a series of ceremonies designed to spread across the nation and into France within the next seven years. The scepter used was tooled from a rafter taken from George Washington's Newburgh headquarters. The baton is sponsored by the Newburgh Chapter, Empire State Sons of the American Revolution.

At the close of the program, Mr. Snyder presented red roses, the flower of New York state, to Drs. Wescott and Merritt and Mrs. Hyde. He noted that the red rose was the favorite flower of Lafayette.

Mrs. Hyde Lectured Here

In his talk, Dr. Merritt said that Lafayette did more than any other foreigner to make our country what it is today. In tracing the life of Lafayette and his contribution to American democracy, Dr. Merritt said that the famous general came to this country, fought with Washington at Yorktown, and was present at the surrender of Cornwallis. He returned to France with new ideas of democracy, and was persecuted for these by his countrymen. Invited to the U. S. in 1824, Lafayette was welcomed as the saviour of this country.

Mrs. Hyde, nominated by Kingston Rotary and Lions clubs, has spoken recently to a group at the First Dutch Church and to the Woodstock Riding Club on the subject of the Navajo Indians. She is particularly interested in the Health Education Pilot Project, now being conducted at Crown Point, N. M., in memory of her husband. He with her brother, financed and took part in the first expedition into Pueblo Bonito, where were the most important remains of the ancient peoples inside the United States.

This present program was originated after personal research by Mrs. Hyde and is financed by her.

Guests at the meeting were Lawrence Bogart, president of the Kingston Rotary Club, and Mrs. Thomas McLaughlin, Mrs. Hyde's daughter, of Kingston.

WHEN FAMILIES LIVE TOGETHER

A reader tells me: "A friend of mine and her daughter live in my house and help share the expenses of running it. Each has her own room but they have full run of the whole house. As a rule, we all dine together in the evening. However, when I have guests in to dinner, is it necessary that this friend and her daughter always be asked, too?"

If they are at home, you can't leave them out; moreover, you of course have to pay for the extra food that you order for your guests. If you don't want to combine your dinner with them, you will have to wait until some evening when you know that they have an engagement to dine out or take your guests to a restaurant.

Questions From Schoolteacher

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a schoolteacher and every now and then I am invited to lunch or dinner by one of the mothers of my pupils. (1) I would like to know if it is necessary for me to write a thank-you note to my hostess for having invited me to a meal, the next day? (2) Also, I sometimes have occasion to write notes to some of my young pupils. I would like to know if it would be proper to sign these notes "Mrs. Smith" or must I sign them Mary Smith.

Answer: (a) A thank-you note is not necessary. (2) Notes to your pupils could quite properly be signed "Mrs. Smith," since this is the only name they know you by.

Passing Plates at Table

Dear Mrs. Post: I was a guest at dinner recently in a house where the host carved and served the plates. I was seated on the host's right and was handed the first plate which I passed on, thinking that was the polite thing to do. I was told later that I was supposed to keep this plate. Will you please tell me what is correct in this situation?

Answer: Although the first plate was correctly yours, you were polite in passing it along. However, it was the host's place to say to you, "This plate is for you."

WHEN FAMILIES LIVE TOGETHER

A reader tells me: "A friend of mine and her daughter live in my house and help share the expenses of running it. Each has her own room but they have full run of the whole house. As a rule, we all dine together in the evening. However, when I have guests in to dinner, is it necessary that this friend and her daughter always be asked, too?"

If they are at home, you can't leave them out; moreover, you of course have to pay for the extra food that you order for your guests. If you don't want to combine your dinner with them, you will have to wait until some evening when you know that they have an engagement to dine out or take your guests to a restaurant.

Questions From Schoolteacher

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a schoolteacher and every now and then I am invited to lunch or dinner by one of the mothers of my pupils. (1) I would like to know if it is necessary for me to write a thank-you note to my hostess for having invited me to a meal, the next day? (2) Also, I sometimes have occasion to write notes to some of my young pupils. I would like to know if it would be proper to sign these notes "Mrs. Smith" or must I sign them Mary Smith.

Answer: (a) A thank-you note is not necessary. (2) Notes to your pupils could quite properly be signed "Mrs. Smith," since this is the only name they know you by.

Passing Plates at Table

Dear Mrs. Post: I was a guest at dinner recently in a house where the host carved and served the plates. I was seated on the host's right and was handed the first plate which I passed on, thinking that was the polite thing to do. I was told later that I was supposed to keep this plate. Will you please tell me what is correct in this situation?

Answer: Although the first plate was correctly yours, you were polite in passing it along. However, it was the host's place to say to you, "This plate is for you."

Child Shows Why 'Scolding Never Gets to the Point'

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The other day I played hostess to a 10-year-old acquaintance we'll call Adela. By 5:30 I wanted her to leave and said so. But Adela made no move to go, so I added "It's late—and your mother will want you to start home before it's dark."

Adela beamed at me. "Oh, mother won't say anything if I'm late," she assured me. "She'll just holler."

In your terms and mine, Adela was telling me, "Scolding never gets to the point."

Adela's training might become easier, if her mother would realize that, since her child still finds it hard to make decisions by herself, they have to be made for her.

When we take a small boy to a toy store, we have no difficulty in understanding how hard it is for him to come to the point of the toy he wants. If we take him to a restaurant, we note how much time he takes to focus on one flavor of ice cream.

This inability to come to the point doesn't irritate us. We just say affectionately, "My, but your eyes are bigger than your stomach."

Well, their ears are just as poor at selecting as their eyes.

Which is why Adela is unimpressed by her mother's scolding. From the torrent of words she defines as "hollering," she cannot come to any clear and precise point of her parent's wish.

I hope we'll think about this. And if Jimmy leaves his bike in the drive again, think twice before we say, "Will you never learn to take care of your things? How do you expect daddy to put the car in the garage with that thing in the way? I warned him that you were too young for an expensive gift like that. Someday you'll realize what money means . . ."

Because our rhetoric falls on deaf ears. If we want the bike in the garage, we have to make the point for Jimmy, instead of distracting him with a rattle of grievances which are not his business — and say, "Jim, go put your bike away."

It takes discipline, especially if we're tired and grumpy. For it's then that we need children's comfort and affection. Nearly always, scolding is an unconscious appeal for it.

But like getting the bike in the garage, we have to make the point that we want the comfort and affection. So let's watch it. For we don't get what we want too often unless we ask for it precisely and unmistakably.

Managers, Trustees Name Children's Home Head at Joint Meeting

GERALD SHAMPO

At a joint meeting of the Board of Managers and the Trustees of the Children's Home, Gerald Shampo was appointed executive director of the Home.

Mr. Shampo received his B.A. degree from Atlantic Union College of South Lancaster, Mass. He has been active in YMCA work and was Dean of Boys at South Lancaster Academy for one year. A veteran of World War 2 service in the ETO and Pacific area with the Infantry, Mr. Shampo was associated with Children's Village at Dobbs Ferry. He has been a member of the staff of the Children's Home for the past three years.

Youngsters Taught Household Chores At Children's Home

Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, a member of the Board of Directors of the Children's Home, was speaker at the March meeting of the Junior Committee, Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, on Monday evening.

The Children's Home, at its start about 50 years ago and for many years called the Industrial Home, was started by a group of women including Isabella Forsythe, one of the founders of the Wiltwyck Chapter, DAR. It is interesting to note the civic interest shown by many women at the turn of the century.

In the early days, many babies and pre-school children were cared for at the home. Today many are teen-agers, with an age range of about 10-16 years. Full sized beds have replaced the cribs used in the past, and modern showers have been installed instead of the tiny tubs which were used for bathing babies.

The 14 girls reside at Highcliff Cottage with a houseparent. Here the girls receive valuable training in doing much of the housework, and in preparing their own breakfast, and lunch, if a high school student. Other meals are cooked in the main building on East Chester street and carried to the cottage in metal containers.

The 10 senior and 10 junior boys reside in the main building, the original home, under the supervision of a houseparent. The boys also are taught responsibility in doing many household chores.

The children attend Sunday school and church. Some are members of the Scouts. They also partake in other community activities which are of special interest to children. Television is available to them and is supervised so that it does not interfere with homework and chores, and 16 mm films are shown on Friday evenings.

Great effort is taken to provide a pleasant homelike atmosphere for the children. Opportunity is provided for them to earn their own spending money. There is also the Jane Stanborough Loan Fund, which is to help children who are interested in furthering their education.

For years the Shriners have donated the proceeds of their annual benefit to the Children's Home. Other organizations and individuals have also been very generous in giving funds and articles which have greatly helped to make the Children's Home an asset to the community. Others who have spent time with the children at work and play have found their efforts most rewarding.

Mrs. John Schleede presided at the business meeting.

Miss Jane Sheaffer, a former CAR member, was welcomed into the Junior Group.

Mrs. Clair Sheaffer reminded the members of the annual colonial bazaar and card party on Wednesday, March 17.

Ruth Freidell was honored at a bridal shower during the social hour which followed. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Conrad Gross and Mrs. Roger G. Billings.

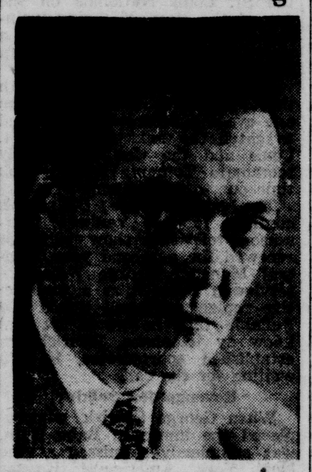
Foreign Correspondent Will Speak at Next Dinner Club Meeting



WILLIAM G. HETHERINGTON

Top-flight news correspondent and radio commentator William G. Hetherington will be the speaker for the next meeting of Kingston National Dinner Club on Tuesday, at 6:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel. His topic will be, Outlook in the Near East.

At present, Mr. Hetherington is news analyst and foreign correspondent for the Newark News. He has made a brilliant and often dangerous career of covering international crises. His penetrating news articles and short-wave broadcasts from abroad and his sought-after lecture appearances at home have established him among the elect of the overseas journalistic fraternity.

Since World War 2, he has covered virtually every major development on the continent: Communist riots in Rome and Milan during the critical Italian elections of '48; Italo-Yugoslav disorders in Trieste; the East-West tug of war in Vienna; the Western airlift to break the Soviet blockade of Berlin; Communist outbreaks in the former German capital; interviewing Gen. Eisenhower at SHAPE and covering the British national elections.

Knows Arab Situation Well

Mr. Hetherington knows the Middle East. As World War 2 correspondent, as wartime news chief for the U. S. Office of War Information in Cairo, and as postwar news correspondent, he knows the Arabs from Casablanca to Damascus, having dined on camel meat with tribal chiefs in the Saudi Arab desert, and attended champagne suppers with Arab diplomats in Beirut and Cairo. He covered the birth of Israel and the Arab-Jewish War. He visited Arab refugee camps and American oil installations. More recently, he reported Egypt's guerrilla war against the British in the Suez Canal Zone.

Mr. Hetherington has made many noteworthy television appearances, including, Meet the Press; Quizzing the News; and News and Views. In addition to foreign assignments for NBC and ABC, he broadcasts a three-a-week 15-minute foreign news commentary, Hetherington Sizes Up the News, over the radio station of the Newark News. He has appeared on numerous forums and panel discussions, among them American Forum of the Air, and Rutgers University Forum.

"A beautiful job on the world subject," was the comment of the New Jersey Citizens' Conference following Mr. Hetherington's talk. His address on world topics is mixed with occasional bits of humor to make more palatable the "bare facts" which he thinks every American should know and consider seriously, and soon, for the good of the nation and the world.

The children attend Sunday school and church. Some are members of the Scouts. They also partake in other community activities which are of special interest to children. Television is available to them and is supervised so that it does not interfere with homework and chores, and 16 mm films are shown on Friday evenings.

Great effort is taken to provide a pleasant homelike atmosphere for the children. Opportunity is provided for them to earn their own spending money. There is also the Jane Stanborough Loan Fund, which is to help children who are interested in furthering their education.

For years the Shriners have donated the proceeds of their annual benefit to the Children's Home. Other organizations and individuals have also been very generous in giving funds and articles which have greatly helped to make the Children's Home an asset to the community. Others who have spent time with the children at work and play have found their efforts most rewarding.

Mrs. John Schleede presided at the business meeting.

Miss Jane Sheaffer, a former CAR member, was welcomed into the Junior Group.

Mrs. Clair Sheaffer reminded the members of the annual colonial bazaar and card party on Wednesday, March 17.

Ruth Freidell was honored at a bridal shower during the social hour which followed. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Conrad Gross and Mrs. Roger G. Billings.

ForeignCorrespondent Will Speak at Next Dinner Club Meeting

WILLIAM G. HETHERINGTON

Top-flight news correspondent and radio commentator William G. Hetherington will be the speaker for the next meeting of Kingston National Dinner Club on Tuesday, at 6:30 p. m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel. His topic will be, Outlook in the Near East.

At present, Mr. Hetherington is news analyst and foreign correspondent for the Newark News. He has made a brilliant and often dangerous career of covering international crises. His penetrating news articles and short-wave broadcasts from abroad and his sought-after lecture appearances at home have established him among the elect of the overseas journalistic fraternity.

Since World War 2, he has covered virtually every major development on the continent: Communist riots in Rome and Milan during the critical Italian elections of '48; Italo-Yugoslav disorders in Trieste; the East-West tug of war in Vienna; the Western airlift to break the Soviet blockade of Berlin; Communist outbreaks in the former German capital; interviewing Gen. Eisenhower at SHAPE and covering the British national elections.

Knows Arab Situation Well

Mr. Hetherington knows the Middle East. As World War 2 correspondent, as wartime news chief for the U. S. Office of War Information in Cairo, and as postwar news correspondent, he knows the Arabs from Casablanca to Damascus, having dined on camel meat with tribal chiefs in the Saudi Arab desert, and attended champagne suppers with Arab diplomats in Beirut and Cairo. He covered the birth of Israel and the Arab-Jewish War. He visited Arab refugee camps and American oil installations. More recently, he reported Egypt's guerrilla war against the British in the Suez Canal Zone.

Mr. Hetherington has made many noteworthy television appearances, including, Meet the Press; Quizzing the News; and News and Views. In addition to foreign assignments for NBC and ABC, he broadcasts a three-a-week 15-minute foreign news commentary, Hetherington Sizes Up the News, over the radio station of the Newark News. He has appeared on numerous forums and panel discussions, among them American Forum of the Air, and Rutgers University Forum.

"A beautiful job on the world subject," was the comment of the New Jersey Citizens' Conference following Mr. Hetherington's talk. His address on world topics is mixed with occasional bits of humor to make more palatable the "bare facts" which he thinks every American should know and consider seriously, and soon, for the good of the nation and the world.

Single Elimination Cage Tournament Set Here for Week of Mar. 15

Murphy, McElroy Report 40 Teams Have Been Invited

Entry Deadline Is Fixed for March 12

A 16-team single elimination tournament, which will be jointly sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department and the local YMCA, is scheduled to get underway during the week of March 15 at municipal auditorium.

Announcement of this was made today by Andy Murphy, superintendent of the Recreation Department, and George McElroy, physical director of the Y.

A total of 40 letters have been dispatched to date to teams from the Kingston area and to seven surrounding counties inviting them to participate in the basketball competition.

See Good Response

Murphy and McElroy, who pointed out that the deadline for entries has been fixed for Friday, March 12, only a week away, felt that the chances were good of having at least 16 teams apply for tournament dates.

"We have received seven verbal dates already," they said "and with seven days before the deadline, we're confident the 16-team entry will be reached without too much trouble." Entries will be accepted on a first come first serve basis.

The two committee chairmen said that the local tournament will be so arranged as to not conflict with the Mid-Hudson Tournament at Poughkeepsie. The Poughkeepsie tourney is scheduled to begin Monday, March 15.

To Award Trophies

Team trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of the tournament to the top four teams. Individual trophies will be presented to the 10 players on the first place team in addition to the team manager.

The last time such a tournament was conducted in Kingston was in 1951 when Lou Schafer supervised an invitational meet at the YMCA.

All tournament games will be played at the municipal auditorium court, the announcement pointed out this morning.

Leafs Finally Snap Olympia Scoring Jinx

(By The Associated Press)

It took the Toronto Maple Leafs 352 minutes and 51 seconds but they finally scored a goal on the Detroit Red Wings' home ice.

Jim Morrison broke the spell last night in the first period when he beat goalie Terry Sawchuk at 19:53. The last time the Leafs had scored in Olympia Stadium was in the final game in Detroit last season when Tod Sloan tallied in the second period. The teams had played six games on Detroit ice this season.

Although the Leafs broke their jinx they had to settle for a tie as Ted Lindsay's goal with less than five minutes remaining gave the Wings a 3-3 deadlock and maintained their eight point lead in the National Hockey League.

The Boston Bruins and the Montreal Canadiens also played a tie—a 1-1 affair. But the one point the Bruins picked up was enough to give them sole possession of the final playoff berth by a 60-59 margin over the New York Rangers, who have one less game to play.

National League umpire Ralph A. (Babe) Pinelli is a former major league player. He was a third baseman for the White Sox, Tigers and the Redlegs.

Loose Fielding of Jablonski and Bilko Won't Help Vic Raschi's Shaky Knee

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Editor)

Vero Beach, Fla. (NEA)—Members of the Brooklyn high command were asking Ted Lyons about Vic Raschi, so unexpectedly sold by the Yankees to the Cardinals. The Springfield Rifle, with the highest winning percentage among active major league pitchers, now poses an additional problem to the Dodgers, you see.

"Raschi is a year older and that doesn't exactly help a pitcher or a ball player when he's 35," replied the long-time White Sox luminary who came from the Tigers to coach the Brooks' bowlers. "But he was still a great pitcher last season. A pitcher can pitch with a bad knee, you know."

"But," butted in Fresco Thompson, the erstwhile infielder directing the Flatbush farms, "Raschi now has Jablonski and Bilk to worry about."

The thumping of Ray Jablonski and Steve Bilko must cover a multitude of transgressions at third and first base, respectively, especially when it comes to fielding bunts, the one department in which Raschi, because of his reported bum knee, is vulnerable.

That's why the Redbirds paid $100,000 each for Shortstop Alex Grammas, who came from the Reds via Kansas City, and Tom Alston, a towering young Negro purchased from the San Diego Coasters.

Speaking of Raschi's sale to the St. Louis Nationals on the eve of the start of spring training, the world champions have a way of not leaving their stars smiling when they say goodby.

Billy Johnson worked out with the Bombers at Yankee Stadium one evening before being advised to catch the next train for St. Louis and the Cardinals. Only roommate Tommy Henrich took time out to say so long.

The brilliant Joe DiMaggio's contract for the Yankees' post-season television show was not renewed for a second year. General Manager George Weiss interviewed Henrich as a prospective replacement and tipped Old Reliable that he would let him know by telephone. Henrich, an established sportscaster, is still waiting for the call.

Revenge for Selkirk

When George Selkirk, who replaced the immortal Babe Ruth, was summarily dismissed as the New York Americans' Kansas City manager, the one-time outfielder explained that there just wasn't room in the organization for himself and Casey Stengel. Last season Twinkletoes Selkirk's Toledo club beat Kansas City for the American Association flag.

At the victory dinner last fall, Dan Topping told Johnny Mize that he wanted to talk with him after the 1953 business had been closed. Thumper Mize has yet to hear from the co-owner.

He will coach the new Richmond Virginians of the International League in spring training at Sanford, Fla., and broadcast before the Giants' games through the season. An agent signed him, not a ball club.

Old Yankees Missing

You never see an old Yankee not presently attached to the club visiting the champs at their camp. Alumni of most other outfits put in an appearance.

With the Yankees, baseball is a cut and dried business. When it is time for a Bomber to move along, the front office treats him like a landlord dispossessing a tenant. It seems to be the final touch of ice cold efficiency that has produced so many pennants and world championships.

Speaking of near-old-timers, Bill Terry, the big automobile man of Jacksonville, is at the Dodgers' camp aboard his yacht. The last National Leaguer to bat .400 and a new member of the Hall of Fame, he recommended a young Negro to the Superbas, completely passing up the Giants' recruit base at not-too-distant Melbourne on the way down to Vero Beach.

A veteran writer who covered Terry and the Giants suggested that maybe the athlete he has in tow dragged Memphis Bill's barge down the intercoastal canal.

Playoff Game Sold Out; Intersectionals to Start

Coach G. Warren Kias, athletic director at Kingston High School, today advised followers of the KHS basketball team not to make the trip to Middletown for the playoff game with Poughkeepsie Saturday unless they have tickets.

The Maroon cage mentor reported that all of the allocated tickets had been sold and added that no more would be available, either here in Kingston or at the game tomorrow night.

For those who do have the ducats, Kias suggested they arrive early. Game time is 8 o'clock tomorrow but it is a sure bet that the Middie gym will be packed long before the start of the crucial battle which will determine the winner of the 1953-54 DUSO Basketball League. Doors to the auditorium will be open at 7 o'clock.

It also was reported today that several student buses will leave from in front of the YMCA on Broadway at 6 p. m. In addition to the buses, many private cars will carry local rooters to the playoff battle.

Intersectionals Begin

Meanwhile, Coach Kias announced this morning the opening game of the 1953-54 intersectionals will be played tonight when Newburgh Free Academy travels to Nott Terrace in Schenectady.

Kingston High School has been assigned to meet Mont Pleasant High next Tuesday night at the Kate Walton Field House. Game time Tuesday is 8 o'clock with a preliminary going on at 6:15.

Marks and Lennahan Score 42, 31 Points

Unbeaten Trinity Lutheran continued on its victory swing Thursday night by scoring a lop-sided 113 to 52 triumph over Redeemer Lutheran in the Senior Protestant Church Basketball League at the YMCA.

It was simply a case of too much good pass work and razzle-dazzle for Redeemer to cope with as the Lutherans piled up their big scoring thrust.

Ronnie Marks, with 42 and Denny Lennahan with 31, paced Trinity in the scoring ledger. Ron Brandt was third high with 29 markers.

Topping the Redeemers were Phil Hendricks with 19, Bob Campbell 14 and Bruce Clair 12.

Trinity took a 28-14 lead at the first quarter and led by 54 to 25 at halftime. They continued to score at will by taking an 89 to 38 margin going into the final period of play.

Robby Wants Out

Vero Beach, March 5 (AP)—Jackie Robinson, trail blazer of the Negro race in organized baseball, said today he hoped to make this his last year in the game. The brilliant Brooklyn infielder who finds himself battling for a regular position for the first time since he's been with the Dodgers, has several business deals pending next winter which, if consumated, will make him independent of baseball for the rest of his life. They would also enabel him to continue his work toward the advancement of the Negro race. "I'm not saying that this definitely will be my last year," Robinson said. "I'm merely saying I hope I can quit after this season, that depends on whether the things I have in mind will materialize.

Carter 7-5 Favorite To Kayo Foe Tonight

DeMarco Underdog In Title Match

New York, March 5 (AP)—Paddy Demarco never has fought 15 rounds and the odds say he won't go that far tonight when he challenges Jimmy Carter for the lightweight title in Madison Square Garden tonight.

But the same odds give Paddy as good a chance as Carter had when he lifted the title from Ike Williams three years ago.

In what little wagering there has been on this fight, which hasn't stirred up much interest hereabouts, Carter has been favored at odds ranging 1-3 to 1-4 and he's a 7-5 choice to knock out the rugged, charging scrapper from Brooklyn. Jimmy was the 3-1 underdog when he stopped Williams in 14 rounds to become champion.

Carter Improved Fighter

Since then Carter has fought for the title eight times, lost it once to Lauro Salas and won it back again, and has become a vastly improved fighter. But he still can't draw a big crowd in his home town.

The bout, starting at 10 p. m. (EST) is expected to draw about 7,000 fans and $30,000 at reserved seat prices ranging from $2.50 to $10. It will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) locally and nationally. That's about what Carter drew when he defended the title here against George Araujo last June.

Carter is a cool, careful sort of fighter who doesn't get excited and often doesn't look spectacular.

In his three title bouts last year he bombed Tommy Collins unmercifully for four rounds, stopped Araujo in 13 and Armand Savoie in five. But he managed to look rather sour in a couple of non-title fights.

Paddy Predicts Win

Demarco, the Brooklyn "Billygoat," Disregards the odds and the obvious facts in predicting that he'll win tonight.

Paddy's style of fighting is to put his head down and charge in, sometimes connecting with his skull instead of his fists. And he thinks he can keep it up for 15 rounds as easily as 10.

"Carter is slow and I'll make him hustle," Demarco said. "All I hope is that he tries to bomb me out with his right."

Replied Jimmy: "I hope he comes in swinging like he says he intends to. I'll meet him with the right kind of punches."

Demarco, four years younger than the 30-year-old Carter, apparently reached his peak in 1950 and 1951, when he had only one defeat in 19 fights. His all-over record of 67-11-2 is slightly better than Carter's 65-16-8. Paddy has only seven knockouts to his credit, as compared to Carter's 26.

Under the New York scoring system, the bout will be decided by rounds, with a supplementary point system used only in case the rounds are even. The winner of a round may get from one to four points, the loser none.

Since its a title fight, the eight-count knockdown rule and the rule requiring the fight to be stopped if one boxer is knocked down three times in one round will be waived. They'll use six-ounce gloves instead of eight. The fighters were scheduled to weigh in at noon (EST). The referee and two judges will be announced at fight time.

Favorites Post Wins In Openers

New York, March 5 (AP)—College basketball's tournament show opened a two-week run last night with lots of excitement but, surprise NO upsets.

The two big extravaganzas begin over the weekend, but the Atlantic Coast and Southern Conferences got the jump on the others last night with first round games in which all the favorites won.

The first tournament of the infant Atlantic Coast Conference had some close calls as North Carolina State squeezed past North Carolina 52-51 and Wake Forest had to go into overtime to subdue South Carolina 58-57. But when the frenzy died down, the first four teams in the regular standings had swept the bottom four from the big Reynolds Coliseum at Raleigh, N. C.

Duke in Romp

Duke, best over the regular season, used its substitutes for most of the second half in a 96-68 romp over Virginia and Maryland clouted Clemson 75-59.

A similar clean sweep was scored in the Southern Conference tournament at Morgantown, W. Va., where regular season leader George Washington led the way with a 76-64 triumph over Washington and Lee. Furman knocked over Davidson 84-66 with all-America Frank Selvy scoring 36 points—less than his 42.6 points per game average; Richmond defeated Virginia military 84-66 and West Virginia took William and Mary 84-69.

NCS Triumphs

North Carolina State, which dominated the old Southern Conference for years, almost came a cropper in its first tourney game under the banner of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Ronnie Shavlik, and 6-7 center, starred for state with 17 rebounds and 21 points, but it was a free throw by Dave Gotkin with eight seconds to play that meant the winning point. The toss offset a later free throw by North Carolina's Jerry Vayda.

North Carolina tried to win by controlling the ball, taking only 25 shots. They hit on 14, an impressive 56 per cent average.

Virginia tried contrasting tactics against Duke as its Buzzy Wilkinson took 44 shots all by himself. He made 13 of them and added 16 fouls for a 42-point total.

Single Elimination Cage Tournament Set Here for Week of Mar. 15

Murphy, McElroy Report 40 Teams Have Been Invited

Entry Deadline Is Fixed for March 12

A 16-team single elimination tournament, which will be jointly sponsored by the Kingston Recreation Department and the local YMCA, is scheduled to get underway during the week of March 15 at municipal auditorium.

Announcement of this was made today by Andy Murphy, superintendent of the Recreation Department, and George McElroy, physical director of the Y.

A total of 40 letters have been dispatched to date to teams from the Kingston area and to seven surrounding counties inviting them to participate in the basketball competition.

See Good Response

Murphy and McElroy, who pointed out that the deadline for entries has been fixed for Friday, March 12, only a week away, felt that the chances were good of having at least 16 teams apply for tournament dates.

"We have received seven verbal dates already," they said "and with seven days before the deadline, we're confident the 16-team entry will be reached without too much trouble." Entries will be accepted on a first come first serve basis.

The two committee chairmen said that the local tournament will be so arranged as to not conflict with the Mid-Hudson Tournament at Poughkeepsie. The Poughkeepsie tourney is scheduled to begin Monday, March 15.

To Award Trophies

Team trophies will be awarded at the conclusion of the tournament to the top four teams. Individual trophies will be presented to the 10 players on the first place team in addition to the team manager.

The last time such a tournament was conducted in Kingston was in 1951 when Lou Schafer supervised an invitational meet at the YMCA.

All tournament games will be played at the municipal auditorium court, the announcement pointed out this morning.

Leafs Finally Snap Olympia Scoring Jinx

(By The Associated Press)

It took the Toronto Maple Leafs 352 minutes and 51 seconds but they finally scored a goal on the Detroit Red Wings' home ice.

Jim Morrison broke the spell last night in the first period when he beat goalie Terry Sawchuk at 19:53. The last time the Leafs had scored in Olympia Stadium was in the final game in Detroit last season when Tod Sloan tallied in the second period. The teams had played six games on Detroit ice this season.

Although the Leafs broke their jinx they had to settle for a tie as Ted Lindsay's goal with less than five minutes remaining gave the Wings a 3-3 deadlock and maintained their eight point lead in the National Hockey League.

The Boston Bruins and the Montreal Canadiens also played a tie —a 1-1 affair. But the one point the Bruins picked up was enough to give them sole possession of the final playoff berth by a 60-59 margin over the New York Rangers, who have one less game to play.

Loose Fielding of Jablonski and Bilko Won't Help Vic Raschi's Shaky Knee

By HARRY GRAYSON
(NEA Sports Editor)

Vero Beach, Fla. (NEA)—Members of the Brooklyn high command were asking Ted Lyons about Vic Raschi, so unexpectedly sold by the Yankees to the Cardinals. The Springfield Rifle, with the highest winning percentage among active major league pitchers, now poses an additional problem to the Dodgers, you see.

"Raschi is a year older and that doesn't exactly help a pitcher or a ball player when he's 35," replied the long-time White Sox luminary who came from the Tigers to coach the Brooks' bowlers. "But he was still a great pitcher last season. A pitcher can pitch with a bad knee, you know."

"But," butted in Fresco Thompson, the erstwhile infielder directing the Flatbush farms, "Raschi now has Jablonski and Bilk to worry about."

The thumping of Ray Jablonski and Steve Bilko must cover a multitude of transgressions at third and first base, respectively, especially when it comes to fielding bunts, the one department in which Raschi, because of his reported bum knee, is vulnerable.

That's why the Redbirds paid $100,000 each for Shortstop Alex Grammas, who came from the Reds via Kansas City, and Tom Alston, a towering young Negro purchased from the San Diego Coasters.

Speaking of Raschi's sale to the St. Louis Nationals on the eve of the start of spring training, the world champions have a way of not leaving their stars smiling when they say goodby.

Billy Johnson worked out with the Bombers at Yankee Stadium one evening before being advised to catch the next train for St. Louis and the Cardinals. Only roommate Tommy Henrich took time out to say so long.

The brilliant Joe DiMaggio's contract for the Yankees' postseason television show was not renewed for a second year. General Manager George Weiss interviewed Henrich as a prospective replacement and tipped Old Reliable that he would let him know by telephone. Henrich, an established sportscaster, is still waiting for the call.

Revenge for Selkirk

When George Selkirk, who replaced the immortal Babe Ruth, was summarily dismissed as the New York Americans' Kansas City manager, the one-time outfielder explained that there just wasn't room in the organization for himself and Casey Stengel. Last season Twinkletoes Selkirk's Toledo club beat Kansas City for the American Association flag.

At the victory dinner last fall, Dan Topping told Johnny Mize that he wanted to talk with him after the 1953 business had been closed. Thumper Mize has yet to hear from the co-owner.

He will coach the new Richmond Virginians of the International League in spring training at Sanford, Fla., and broadcast before the Giants' games through the season. An agent signed him, not a ball club.

Old Yankees Missing

You never see an old Yankee not presently attached to the club visiting the champs at their camp. Alumni of most other outfits put in an appearance.

With the Yankees, baseball is a cut and dried business. When it is time for a Bomber to move along, the front office treats him like a landlord dispossessing a tenant. It seems to be the final touch of ice cold efficiency that has produced so many pennants and world championships.

Speaking of near-old-timers, Bill Terry, the big automobile man of Jacksonville, is at the Dodgers' camp aboard his yacht. The last National Leaguer to bat .400 and a new member of the Hall of Fame, he recommended a young Negro to the Superbas, completely passing up the Giants' recruit base at not-too-distant Melbourne on the way down to Vero Beach.

A veteran writer who covered Terry and the Giants suggested that maybe the athlete he has in tow dragged Memphis Bill's barge down the intercoastal canal.

Playoff Game Sold Out; Intersectionals to Start

Coach G. Warren Kias, athletic director at Kingston High School, today advised followers of the KHS basketball team not to make the trip to Middletown for the playoff game with Poughkeepsie Saturday unless they have tickets.

The Maroon cage mentor reported that all of the allocated tickets had been sold and added that no more would be available, either here in Kingston or at the game tomorrow night.

For those who do have the ducats, Kias suggested they arrive early. Game time is 8 o'clock tomorrow but it is a sure bet that the Middie gym will be packed long before the start of the crucial battle which will determine the winner of the 1953-54 DUSO Basketball League. Doors to the auditorium will be open at 7 o'clock.

It also was reported today that several student buses will leave from in front of the YMCA on Broadway at 6 p. m. In addition to the buses, many private cars will carry local rooters to the playoff battle.

Intersectionals Begin

Meanwhile, Coach Kias announced this morning the opening game of the 1953-54 intersectionals will be played tonight when Newburgh Free Academy travels to Nott Terrace in Schenectady.

Kingston High School has been assigned to meet Mont Pleasant High next Tuesday night at the Kate Walton Field House. Game time Tuesday is 8 o'clock with a preliminary going on at 6:15.

Marks and Lennahan Score 42, 31 Points

Unbeaten Trinity Lutheran continued on its victory swing Thursday night by scoring a lop-sided 113 to 52 triumph over Redeemer Lutheran in the Senior Protestant Church Basketball League at the YMCA.

It was simply a case of too much good pass work and razzle-dazzle for Redeemer to cope with as the Lutherans piled up their big scoring thrust.

Ronnie Marks, with 42 and Denny Lennahan with 31, paced Trinity in the scoring ledger. Ron Brandt was third high with 29 markers.

Topping the Redeemers were Phil Hendricks with 19, Bob Campbell 14 and Bruce Clair 12.

Trinity took a 28-14 lead at the first quarter and led by 54 to 25 at halftime. They continued to score at will by taking an 89 to 38 margin going into the final period of play.

Robby Wants Out

Vero Beach, March 5 (AP)—Jackie Robinson, trail blazer of the Negro race in organized baseball, said today he hoped to make this his last year in the game. The brilliant Brooklyn infielder who finds himself battling for a regular position for the first time since he's been with the Dodgers, has several business deals pending next winter which, if consumated, will make him independent of baseball for the rest of his life. They would also enabel him to continue his work toward the advancement of the Negro race. "I'm not saying that this definitely will be my last year," Robinson said. "I'm merely saying I hope I can quit after this season, that depends on whether the things I have in mind will materialize.

Carter 7-5 Favorite To Kayo Foe Tonight

DeMarco Underdog In Title Match

New York, March 5 (AP)—Paddy Demarco never has fought 15 rounds and the odds say he won't go that far tonight when he challenges Jimmy Carter for the lightweight title in Madison Square Garden tonight.

But the same odds give Paddy as good a chance as Carter had when he lifted the title from Ike Williams three years ago.

In what little wagering there has been on this fight, which hasn't stirred up much interest hereabouts, Carter has been favored at odds ranging 1-3 to 1-4 and he's a 7-5 choice to knock out the rugged, charging scrapper from Brooklyn. Jimmy was the 3-1 underdog when he stopped Williams in 14 rounds to become champion.

Carter Improved Fighter

Since then Carter has fought for the title eight times, lost it once to Lauro Salas and won it back again, and has become a vastly improved fighter. But he still can't draw a big crowd in his home town.

The bout, starting at 10 p. m. (EST) is expected to draw about 7,000 fans and $30,000 at reserved seat prices ranging from $2.50 to $10. It will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC) locally and nationally. That's about what Carter drew when he defended the title here against George Araujo last June.

Carter is a cool, careful sort of fighter who doesn't get excited and often doesn't look spectacular.

In his three title bouts last year he bombed Tommy Collins unmercifully for four rounds, stopped Araujo in 13 and Armand Savoie in five. But he managed to look rather sour in a couple of non-title fights.

Paddy Predicts Win

Demarco, the Brooklyn "Billygoat," Disregards the odds and the obvious facts in predicting that he'll win tonight.

Paddy's style of fighting is to put his head down and charge in, sometimes connecting with his skull instead of his fists. And he thinks he can keep it up for 15 rounds as easily as 10.

"Carter is slow and I'll make him hustle," Demarco said. "All I hope is that he tries to bomb me out with his right."

Replied Jimmy: "I hope he comes in swinging like he says he intends to. I'll meet him with the right kind of punches."

Demarco, four years younger than the 30-year-old Carter, apparently reached his peak in 1950 and 1951, when he had only one defeat in 19 fights. His all-over record of 67-11-2 is slightly better than Carter's 65-16-8. Paddy has only seven knockouts to his credit, as compared to Carter's 26.

Under the New York scoring system, the bout will be decided by rounds, with a supplementary point system used only in case the rounds are even. The winner of a round may get from one to four points, the loser none.

Since its a title fight, the eight-count knockdown rule and the rule requiring the fight to be stopped if one boxer is knocked down three times in one round will be waived. They'll use six-ounce gloves instead of eight. The fighters were scheduled to weigh in at noon (EST). The referee and two judges will be announced at fight time.

The toss offset a later free throw by North Carolina's Jerry Vayda.

North Carolina tried to win by controlling the ball, taking only 25 shots. They hit on 14, an impressive 56 per cent average.

Virginia tried contrasting tactics against Duke as its Buzzy Wilkinson took 44 shots all by himself. He made 13 of them and added 16 fouls for a 42-point total.

Middlecoff Holds Early Stroke Lead

Houston, March 5 (AP) — Cary Middlecoff, to the surprise of practically no one, held a one-stroke lead today in the $30,000 Houston Open.

The former Memphis dentist yesterday repeated his usual custom of finding a magic putter in Houston. He ignored an aggravating head cold while methodically beating or tieing par for a first round 66 on the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course.

This left him one stroke ahead of Freddie Haas of New Orleans, winner of the January Palm Springs Open. Bill Nary, the young Tucson, Ariz., pro, was one stroke behind Haas at 68.

The first round was played in a bitter 45-degree wind. Higher temperatures were expected for today's second round but scattered showers also were forecast.

The field of 149 will be cut to the low 90 and ties after today's 18.

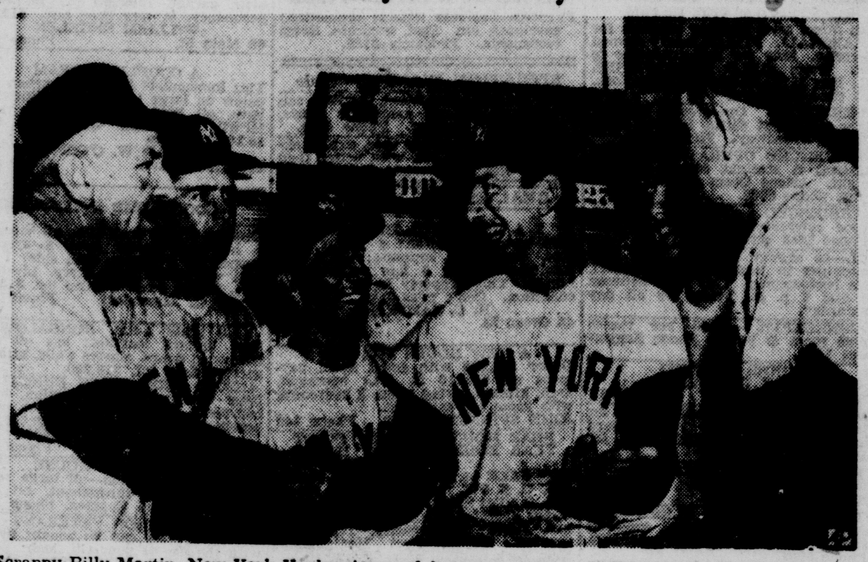
Old Arch Enemy in the Dodger Camp

Remember when Billy Terry years ago as manager of the New York Giants asked the classic question: "Is Brooklyn still in the league?" Proving that time heals all wounds, here's the same Bill Terry, now an auto dealer in Jacksonville, Fla., in a Dodger uniform at Vero Beach, Fla., giving some batting tips to Brooklyn players. Junior Gilliam is at left, and George Shuba in center. Terry, recently elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, has visited various spring training camps in recent years. (AP Wirephoto)

Goodbyes for Billy



Scrappy Billy Martin, New York Yankees' second baseman, gets a goodbye handshake from Manager Casey Stengel in the clubhouse at St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4, as other teammates gather to wish him well. Billy was scheduled to leave for California and induction into the service. Left to right: Stengel, Jerry Coleman, Phil Rizzuto, Martin, Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra. (AP Wirephoto)

New Orleans, March 6 (AP)—Brookmeade Stables hard-hitting entry of Capedaor and First Aud ruled solid early choice today among the 13 probable starters for Saturday's $50,000-added New Orleans Handicap. The Brookmeade pair, listed at 8-5 in the early quotations for the Fair Grounds' richest race of the season, appeared likely to go postward as the public choice in the mile and one-eighth classic.

Syracuse Regains Tie With Celtics

(By The Associated Press)

The Syracuse Nationals are back in a tie with the Boston Celtics for second place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association and the Rochester Royals hold a ½-game bulge over Fort Wayne for runner-up honors in the Western Division.

The change in the standings took place last night as the Nats defeated Fort Wayne 86-63 for their sixth victory in their last eight games and Rochester made it six out of seven over the Philadelphia Warriors this season with a 85-78 decision.

The Baltimore Bullets snapped a seven-game losing streak by defeating the Milwaukee Hawks 95-87 on the same card as the Rochester-Philadelphia game.

Larry Foust of Fort Wayne was the high point producer in the Syracuse contest with 25 but the Nats' well balanced attack scored heavily in the last two periods after the Pistons had reduced the halftime margin to 41-37.

Johnston Adds 26

The Royals also pulled away in the third period but were forced to fight off a fourth quarter Philadelphia rally as Neil Johnston completed a 26-point night for the losers. Jack Coleman led Rochester with 19. Rollen Hans dropped in 29 points in leading the Bullets to their victory.

control substance. The code numbers will be known only to the director of the national study.

Bought With Dimes

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will provide the vaccine through funds collected in the March of Dimes campaigns.

Dr. Hilleboe said the National Foundation has done everything possible to assure the safety of the vaccine. The Division of Laboratories and Research of the State Health Department has approved the method of production, and three independent scientific laboratories will give safety tests to each batch of vaccine as it is produced.

The safety tests will be performed by Dr. Jonas Salk, research professor of bacteriology at the University of Pittsburgh, developer of the vaccine; and by commercial manufacturers and the Biological Standards Division of the United States Public Health Service's National Institute of Health.

Dr. Salk has already given the vaccine to several thousand children and adults in the Pittsburgh area, including his own wife and children.

Not Gamma Globulin

The vaccine should not be confused with the gamma globulin which was widely used last summer, Dr. Hilleboe emphasized. Gamma globulin is one of the derivatives of human blood from persons who have had poliomyelitis and have built up some immunity to the disease. At best it could provide only temporary immunity for the period of weeks that the gamma globulin remains in the body of the person injected. This is called passive immunity.

The vaccine is composed of a colution that contains killed virus of all three types of polio which have been grown artificially in test tubes in the laboratory. Studies which Dr. Salk has made thus far have shown that vaccinations have stimulated injected persons to develop significant amounts of poliomyelitis antibodies which are the fighters in the blood that can kill the polio viruses. This is called active immunity and has the possibility of lasting for months and years.

The counties which Dr. Hilleboe announced today as being participants in the trials include, in order of priority: Suffolk, Nassau, Onondaga, Westchester, Orange, Cayuga, Broome, Monroe, Erie, Oswego, Dutchess, Otsego, Cattaraugus, Ulster Schenectady, Clinton, Jefferson, Oneida, Tompkins, and Saratoga.

Selected by Foundation

The counties were selected by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis after discussion with state health officials. Under standards set up by the National Foundation, a county to be selected in New York state had to be larger than 50,000 population and must have had high polio incidence for the past five or six years, high epidemic rate in the past five years during June through September, high attack rate in specific age group, adequate health and education facilities, and socio-economic factors such as geographic location to provide a significant cross-section study.

Ulster county averaged 24.8 resident polio cases in the past five years. In 1949 there were 54 resident cases reported; in 1950, 14; 1951, 13; 1952, 30, and 1953, 13. No cases have been reported so far this year.

New York is one of 11 states in the country which will carry out special control studies which are necessary to give an exact answer as to the effectiveness of the vaccine in preventing paralytic poliomyelitis. In the remaining 37 states and the District of Columbia, vaccine will be given to children in the first grade only, while children in the second and third grades will serve as observed controls.

Ulster 15th on List

Dr. Hillebeo emphasized that the amount of vaccine available from the manufacturers will be a major factor in determining whether all 20 counties and six New York city districts listed actually will take part in the studies. If not enough vaccine is available it will be given to the counties in order of their listing. Ulster county is 15th on the list.

The actual date for starting the vaccinations will depend upon the time of the avilability of the vaccine. Middle or late April is the expected time for beginning the study, Dr. Hillebeo said.

The reports of the test will be evaluated in an independent study to be carried out at the University of Michigan School of Public Health. The study will be directed by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., chairman of the department of epidemiology at the Michigan school. Dr. Robert F. Korns, director of the state health department's Bureau of Epidemiology and Communicable Disease Control, is on leave of absence to serve as deputy director.

"This is a study of tremendous importance," Dr. Hilleboe said, "and affords us an opportunity to test the effectiveness of this new vaccine. It will place heavy additional burdens upon our health officers and family physicians, but it is well worth the efforts of all of us if the test paves the way for nation-wide preventive vaccines against poliomyelitis."

Cleveland, March 5 (AP)—Cleveland, reeling from five straight days of snow and wind, bent its back again today and hoped for clearing skies and a mild thaw. Buses got "lost" or ran hours behind schedule in the swirling whiteness. Three Are Injured In Auto Crash

Three persons were injured, none seriously, in a three-car mishap at Broadway and Cedar street yesterday afternoon.

Officers Meyer Levy and Louis Sapp, Jr., reported at 4:32 p. m., that the sedan of Joseph Riccio, RD, Kingston had stopped for the light at the intersection, and the coupe of Leslie Stewart, driven by Douglas Stewart, 17, of Sawkill, was headed north, and turning left into Cedar street. The other car, driven by Arnold W. Anderson, 28 of 79 Gage street, was going south on Broadway, the report said.

Douglas Stewart was arrested on a charge dealing with alleged violation of a state law on insurance for minors operating automobiles. The case was adjourned until March 13 when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino

The report said Carol Stevens, 15, of RD, Kingston, suffered an injury of the right side of the head, and Ann Modica, 14, of Brabrant road, suffered an injury of the right shoulder. Arnold W. Anderson, was also reported injured, but the extent of his injuries were not reported. All were treated at Kingston Hospital where Anderson was admitted for X-rays. His condition was reported as "good" today.

control substance. The code numbers will be known only to the director of the national study.

Bought With Dimes

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis will provide the vaccine through funds collected in the March of Dimes campaigns.

Dr. Hilleboe said the National Foundation has done everything possible to assure the safety of the vaccine. The Division of Laboratories and Research of the State Health Department has approved the method of production, and three independent scientific laboratories will give safety tests to each batch of vaccine as it is produced.

The safety tests will be performed by Dr. Jonas Salk, research professor of bacteriology at the University of Pittsburgh, developer of the vaccine; and by commercial manufacturers and the Biological Standards Division of the United States Public Health Service's National Institute of Health.

Dr. Salk has already given the vaccine to several thousand children and adults in the Pittsburgh area, including his own wife and children.

Not Gamma Globulin

The vaccine should not be confused with the gamma globulin which was widely used last summer, Dr. Hilleboe emphasized. Gamma globulin is one of the derivatives of human blood from persons who have had poliomyelitis and have built up some immunity to the disease. At best it could provide only temporary immunity for the period of weeks that the gamma globulin remains in the body of the person injected. This is called passive immunity.

The vaccine is composed of a colution that contains killed virus of all three types of polio which have been grown artificially in test tubes in the laboratory. Studies which Dr. Salk has made thus far have shown that vaccinations have stimulated injected persons to develop significant amounts of poliomyelitis antibodies which are the fighters in the blood that can kill the polio viruses. This is called active immunity and has the possibility of lasting for months and years.

The counties which Dr. Hilleboe announced today as being participants in the trials include, in order of priority: Suffolk, Nassau, Onondaga, Westchester, Orange, Cayuga, Broome, Monroe, Erie, Oswego, Dutchess, Otsego, Cattaraugus, Ulster Schenectady, Clinton, Jefferson, Oneida, Tompkins, and Saratoga.

Selected by Foundation

The counties were selected by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis after discussion with state health officials. Under standards set up by the National Foundation, a county to be selected in New York state had to be larger than 50,000 population and must have had high polio incidence for the past five or six years, high epidemic rate in the past five years during June through September, high attack rate in specific age group, adequate health and education facilities, and socio-economic factors such as geographic location to provide a significant cross-section study.

Ulster county averaged 24.8 resident polio cases in the past five years. In 1949 there were 54 resident cases reported; in 1950, 14; 1951, 13; 1952, 30, and 1953, 13. No cases have been reported so far this year.

New York is one of 11 states in the country which will carry out special control studies which are necessary to give an exact answer as to the effectiveness of the vaccine in preventing paralytic poliomyelitis. In the remaining 37 states and the District of Columbia, vaccine will be given to children in the first grade only, while children in the second and third grades will serve as observed controls.

Ulster 15th on List

Dr. Hilleboe emphasized that the amount of vaccine available from the manufacturers will be a major factor in determining whether all 20 counties and six New York city districts listed actually will take part in the studies. If not enough vaccine is available it will be given to the counties in order of their listing. Ulster county is 15th on the list.

The actual date for starting the vaccinations will depend upon the time of the availability of the vaccine. Middle or late April is the expected time for beginning the study, Dr. Hillebeo said.

The reports of the test will be evaluated in an independent study to be carried out at the University of Michigan School of Public Health. The study will be directed by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., chairman of the department of epidemiology at the Michigan school. Dr. Robert F. Korns, director of the state health department's Bureau of Epidemiology and Communicable Disease Control, is on leave of absence to serve as deputy director.

"This is a study of tremendous importance," Dr. Hilleboe said, "and affords us an opportunity to test the effectiveness of this new vaccine. It will place heavy additional burdens upon our health officers and family physicians, but it is well worth the efforts of all of us if the test paves the way for nation-wide preventive vaccines against poliomyelitis."

Kingston's television station, WKNY-TV, should be ready to begin operation within "a month and a half or two months," Robert L. Sabin, station manager, told members of the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Thursday.

Sabin cited as advantages of a local station a clear picture not subject to the interference sometimes noticed with more distant stations, local programming, as well as "top network shows," and inexpensixe installation. He said WKNY will be affiliated with three networks—CBS, NBC, and Dumont.

Robert Perry, program director, reported that the tower under construction near Port Ewen has reached a height of 500 feet. The remaining 100 feet should be completed "in two more working days," he said, after which the antenna will be erected.

As Pegler Sees It

American surplus fighting planes to Soviet Czechoslovakia. Another partner, until he died, was Louis Weiss, the brother of the Communist mouthpiece Carol Weiss King and himself the mouthpiece for Marshall Field. Weiss put in the fix at the White House for Mark Gayn of the Amerasia group who was then on the editorial staff of Field's paper.

A nice bunch, and yet the military academy invites Telford Taylor to talk to the cadets and the command ducks responsibility by explaining that the cadets who comprise the "forum" did it on their own initiative.

Well now that just can't be done at the United States Military Academy. The chain-of-command system hands the responsibility right up to the superintendent, General Irving, who not only lays wreaths on Roosevelt's grave on the annual gala but seems to like the job. Many Americans, including generals and admirals, would flatly refuse to obey an order even from Ike himself. General "Nuts" McAuliffe, of Bastogne, did last winter when he was ordered up to Boston to make a speech in honor of Drew Pearson. He wouldn't and didn't and they had to get another officer with less sensitive scruples.

What are they up to in this army, anyway?

After these weeks and three pestering inquiries I finally got a telegram from the Department of the Army trying to justify the invitation to Telford Taylor on the ground of his "known war record." I have phoned Taylor's office repeatedly asking what his "war record" was. He doesn't answer.

Surely, the academy should have it ready to hand.

But no, the "war record" of "General" Telford Taylor is unknown there. Do you really want to know what he did as "brigadier general"?

He took part in the Nurnberg trials with the Soviet government also sitting as judge and prosecutor against its own old accomplice in the very crimes for which the German generals and Nazi politicians were hanged from the gallows.

That was the war activity of "Brigadier General" Telford Taylor.

Settlement Made In Negligence Case

A settlement was reached Friday in two negligence actions in Supreme Court brought by Alfred and Elizabeth Dexter against Joseph and Ethel Kooperman to recover damages for a fall on a snow covered walk at the Victory Market property in Ellenville. John A. Bonomi appeared for plaintiffs and Cook & Cook for defendants.

Justice Bookstein recessed the court until Monday due to a regular special term of Supreme Court today being held by Justice Donald S. Taylor.

Dutchess UN Group Will Meet Monday

Dutchess Chapter, American Association for the United Nations, will hold its next regular meeting March 8, at 7:45 p. m., in the auditorium of the new Central Hudson Gas and Electric building, 47 Cannon street, Poughkeepsie. The meeting will discuss the chapter's present program and consider a plan for participation in a nation-wide campaign in April.

It is the aim of the American Association for the United Nations to add this year a million new members, and the local chapter expects to play an active part in filling its share of the quota. Its membership, reports Walter Brenton Ross, the secretary, has already increased 60 per cent during the past three months.

The letter which has been sent to the chapter's members announcing next Monday's meeting draws attention to the fact that "the tide of reaction with which our country is now confronted makes it more important than ever that we build up a strong body of informed citizens who will give an enlightened and constructive support to the work of the United Nations."
